The Prince's Malaria
Ask Mussolini
If War Did Come
Oh! Man, Full of Guile

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1930, King Features Synd., Inc.

AN AIRPLANE hurried to the Prince of Wales' hunting camp in Africa, supposed to carry news concerning affairs of state.

It turns out that the prince had malaria. The airplane, probably, was taking a doctor, or only quinine. Little things are more dangerous than big some times. The prince went to kill lions and elephants, and did both safely. A small mosquito, planting the malaria germ in his blood, sends him home a sick man.

Fortunately, quinine, taken internally, or injected into the bloom stream, cures malaria, being one of the few specifics that men possess.

It is amusing to recall what happened when Jesuit missionaries learned 300 years ago in South America about the value of "Peruvian bark." They brought it back to Europe and named it quinine for the Countess of Cinchoon. "Good Protestants" refused to use it, calling it "an invention of the devil," because it came from the Roman Catholic Church.

The Protestant prince nevertheless will use it now.

Chicago gathered in over the week-end 814 more alleged gangsters. Some caught with pistols will go to jail, others, aliens, will be deported. A majority will break through the net.

Chicago shows energy, but will not end gang rule and racketeering by wild methods. A commission might be sent to ask Mussolini what he would do, and how he dealt with the Mafia in Sicily.

That Mafia organization would have made most of Chicago's racketeers jump out of their shoes, as gentlemen do in the comic pictures. Mussolini brought them to court, chained together in an iron cage, the Mafia was eliminated.

On one occasion Chicago had 4000 of its gangsters locked up. Mussolini, who believes in action, would very likely have closed doors and windows carefully and turned on the gas. At least he would have made each of the 4000 drink a quart of castor oil.

Very cruel, but it would have reduced Chicago's gang population considerably.

General Ely, commanding the Second Corps Area, has a plan to defend New York city in war. If modern war came, the civilian services would mobilize themselves, and with them the six million population of New York, as many as survived the first gas and bomb attack, would mobilize themselves by scattering through the country, abandoning the city as rats leave a ship when it is sinking.

In case of an attack by airplane, which would be the first sort of attack in a new war, it would not be necessary for General Ely to worry about his suggestion for "guarding the water supply."

After the first half hour, there wouldn't be anybody left in New York to drink water. The dead couldn't drink it and all the living would have left the city.

Mr. Sykes, who has talent, makes a picture of the farm board as an anxious old father walking the floor with two heavy babies, "wheat" and "cotton."

The farm board decides to stop the carrying, no more buying up wheat, sometimes at 15 cents above the market price.

Man is full of guile. The farm board discovers with horror that when it pays in the country more than the market price of wheat in the city, "slick" city men actually ship their wheat back to the country and sell it to the innocent farm board.

One gentleman in the Senate wants "an end of secrecy" in regard to our London naval limitations conference.

Washington also would like an end to secrecy. So far other countries haven't told us any secrets.

They take our delegates to see where Samuel Johnson made a grassy mark on the back of a wall, in the old Cheshire cheese, and show them interesting graves in and out of Westminster Abbey.

But not France, Japan nor Britain has let any American delegate know anything that is really planned.

We are there not to suggest, but to be told.

We have among us a FOUR BILLION DOLLAR CONCERN named A. T. & T., otherwise the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Its assets and those of the associated Bell Telephone system increased since 1899 by $660,000,000. It is the biggest private business in the world, its total assets being more than four billion two hundred and twenty-eight millions.

GIRL SHOOTS SELF NEAR COP'S HOME

Roomed There, She Says, Till He Ordered Her Out a Week Ago; May Die

Using the policeman's revolver, Miss Ida Whitman, of Commonwealth ave., Allston, shot herself today in the corridor outside the apartment of Patrolman Robert L. Spreadhy of Roxbury Crossing station.

At St. Elizabeth's Hospital, with her name on the danger list, she told officers at Brighton station that she had shot herself in Patrolman Spreadhy's apartment, but was ordered out by him a week ago.

One shot was fired by Miss Whitman into her right side. As the report reverberated through the apartment house she sank to the floor, while occupants of other apartments rushed out to see what caused the noise.

PATROLMAN QUIZZED

Brighton police were notified and an ambulance took the young woman to St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

After she had told her story, Patrolman Spreadhy was sent for. He was not at home at the time of the shooting.

Spreadhy was questioned at Brighton station by Capt. Samuel Dunlap and by Lieut. Charles Miller of Roxbury Crossing station.

Then Sergt. Mahoney and special Officer Maguire of Brighton began an investigation.

SECOND REVOLVER.

It was reported to headquarters by Capt. Dunlap that the revolver used by Miss Whitman was not the policeman's service revolver, but a 38-caliber revolver owned by him and kept in a drawer of his bureau.

Patrolman Spreadhy was appointed to the police department on November 8, 1919, and has always been at the Roxbury Crossing station. He was born on June 4, 1886, in Bedford, and was a motorman before becoming a policeman. He is single.

MOVES TO OUST MUTUAL AUTO LIABILITY CO.

Insurance Commissioner Says Concern Has $73,726 Deficit in Assets

State Insurance Commissioner Merton L. Brown today asked the attorney-general to request the Supreme Court to prevent the Trade Mutual Liability Insurance Co. from doing any more business on the ground that it is insolvent.

The company, according to Brown, has assets of $108,126.24, liabilities of $181,853.60, a deficit amounting to $73,727.36.

The commissioner said he was informed at the Attorney-General's office that the receiver for an injunction against the company could be filed with the Supreme Court later in the day.

He said the Trade Mutual has about 400 policyholders, practically all of them taxicab concerns or companies letting out cars for hire. Lewis H. Peters, the president, according to Commissioner Brown, is the former State Representative from Medford.

The other officers listed by the insurance department head are as follows: Ellen J. McRae, secretary; Roger F. Turner, treasurer; Horace D. Likens, assistant treasurer and vice-president; Arthur H. Curtis, vice-president Hugh J. McMackin, assistant secretary.

ASSERTS MILD DRINKER HAS LONGER LIFE

Mental Expert Testifies at a Hearing on Dry Law Repeal; Saloon Opposed

Washington, March 4—Dr. Stewart Patton of Baltimore, an expert in mental diseases and professor of psychiatrics at Johns Hopkins University, expressed the opinion at the House judiciary committee's prohibition hearing today that a moderate drinker has a greater expectancy of life than either an excessive drinker or a total abstainer.

He denounced prohibition as "the greatest menace to sane constructive thinking in this country."

Other witnesses declared it a breeder of crime and corruption.

They emphatically declared against any return of the saloon, however.

"As a result of the Eighteenth Amendment this country is suffering from signs of prohibition shock that compares to shell shock during the war, Dr. Patton declared.

Asking Government has practically told every person that it has no confidence in his being temperate and moderate.

A prohibitive attitude, he said, robs an individual of his confidence and has that effect of weakening the individual's power of constructive thinking.

INJURES YOUNG PEOPLE

Speaking solely from the standpoint of a psychiatrist, Dr. Patton said that the only hope for mankind lies in education—diverting criminal impulses into sane impulses.

Dr. Patton said he spent two years studying students in Yale University.

"As a result of these studies I think there is no doubt but that prohibition is injurious to the young people," he said.

"They have prohibition on their minds instead of devoting themselves to sane, constructive thinking.

"Do you think that the fact that you prohibit these people from drinking makes them want to drink?" asked Representative Hamner (D.) of North Carolina.

"Undoubtedly," he said.

Quizzed in Garrett Case

Dr. Herbert H. Udelson testified that the insurance company for which he examined Oliver B. Garrett asked for a second examination on account of the Marshfield accident, but Simon Swig told him that "was all taken care of." (Staff photo.)

TESTIMONY IN INQUIRY HITS SPORTSMAN AND SWIG

Doctor Didn't Know Why He Was Asked to Go to the Room of Fight Manager

Dr. Herbert H. Udelson of Roxbury, surprise witness at the attorney-general's investigation of the activities of Oliver B. Garrett, testified today he made an examination, resulting in the former patrolman being passed as a good insurance risk, in the office of Dan Carroll.

He could give no particular reason why the examination was made in the Scollay building offices of Carroll, former striking policeman truckman and fight manager, and a prominent figure in the City Council baseball scandal.

While this testimony was being given Charles H. Innes, prominent Back Bay Republican leader, arrived at the hearing room, thrust his head in the door, looked over the scene and then withdrew.

It was learned that Inspector Goldston is attending the hearing as bodyguard to John H. Meredith, secretary to Police Commissioner Wilson.

Inspector Goldston has been leasing headquarters with Merrick, riding on the front seat of his car to the State House, and sitting with him in the front row.

The reason why a bodyguard should be assigned to the commissioner's secretary could not be learned.

Dr. George B. Buchler, Boylston st., physician and surgeon, created a surprise when he testified that a skull fracture such as Garrett received would be of relatively slight effect.

He added that the seriousness of the injury would depend on whether bone depressed on the brain, in which case there would be loss of consciousness, and might result in the loss of speech or in paralysis.

Dr. Udelson admitted he made a second examination of Garrett, as requested by his company after learning of the Marshfield Fair accident, because General Agent Simon Swig said "he had taken care of everything."

Testimony by Dr. Udelson that the insurance policy for $5000 was issued about 10 days after Garrett had been declared unfit for police duty and permitted to retire on pension, caused a sensation in the hearing room.

EVERY SEAT TAKEN

Every one of the limited number of spectators' seats was taken immediately after the doors opened and a crowd of several hundred was held in the corridor by an augmented number of State House guards.

Garrett, wearing his camel's hair overcoat and a new brown soft hat, arrived shortly after 10 o'clock and stood about in the corridor for a time before entering the hearing room.

The appearance of Dr. Udelson as a witness was unexpected, as it had been sought unsuccessfully for some days.

The physician returned last night from Florida, where he said he had been enjoying a brief vacation, after he was served with a summons.

He was called to the stand by Special Assistant Attorney-General Damon E. Hall after police records were introduced showing the number of times Garrett was off duty for illness during 1927.

The physician, after outlining the work he has done in connection with his profession, in response to

In addition he left a bequest of $100,000 to the Queen of Spain.

The will of the late ambassador has not been filed for probate.

In addition to the bequest to Queen Victoria of Spain and Mrs. Caruso, the Sun-Telegraph listed the following other bequests:

TAFT SMILES AT DOCTORS

Washington, Mar. 4 (AP)—William Howard Taft's condition showed little change today, his nurse reporting that he spent a fairly comfortable night.

The official bulletin, issued by Drs. Francis R. Hagner and Thomas A. Claytor said: "The condition of the former chief justice is unaltered since yesterday. He is comfortable and continues to take a moderate amount of nourishment."

Dr. Hagner added that Mr. Taft recognized those in the room about him today and smiled as he murmured good-by to the physicians when they departed.

The stillness about the Taft home was broken by an airplane high above. The roar of the motor was plainly audible.

The police guard in front of the home was absent for the first time in several days.

DOCTOR SAYS SWIG "FIXED" GARRETT'S MARSHFIELD ACCIDENT

INSURANCE COMPANY ASKED FOR SECOND EXAMINATION

IN CARROLL'S OFFICE

The doctor said he passed Garrett as a good risk for a $5000 policy for life insurance issued by the Security Mutual Life Insurance Co., of New York.

Atty. Hall tried to get the witness to admit that Carroll's office was a unique place in which to hold an examination of the kind, and Dr. Odelson agreed it was not usual.

He said he was "just asked to go there," and thought nothing of it. He admitted Garrett said nothing to him about the Marshfield Fair accident, and the first he learned of it was when the company wrote him.

This letter called attention to press reports of the accident, and asked the physician to make a further examination and report.

The witness said he communicated with Simon Swig, general agent of the company in Boston, and was told he need not bother, as everything had been taken care of.

SCAN RECORD BOOK

The hearing opened with an examination of the police record or "detail" book for 1927, giving dates in relation to Garrett's affairs.

This book was furnished by Michael H. Crowley, superintendent of police.

The first date was August 2, 1927, which revealed that Garrett and others had been in an automobile accident at 12:50 p. m. This is the date of the automobile accident which Garrett claimed caused a fractured skull and other injuries entitling him to his pension.

On August 3 Garrett was off duty because of the accident.

On August 4 Garrett reported back for duty.

On August 4 and until August 14 Garrett was on duty. The book showed he worked several hours overtime in that interval.

MONTH'S "VACATION."

On August 14 Garrett took the day off as he had worked the previous Sunday.

Ong August 17 Garrett went on vacation until September 2.

Garrett was due back from vacation on Sept. 3, but instead he reported "sick," and remained off duty until Sept. 21. This sick leave gave him a total vacation of nearly a month.

On Sept. 21, Garrett reported back for duty. Until the end of October he was listed as being on the job.

At this point in the examination of the detail book, Atty.-Gen. Warner announced that he would interrupt to put on another witness.

DR. UDELSON ON STAND

Dr. Herbert H. Udelson of Roxbury was the first witness. He identified himself as a Tufts graduate of 1924 and a former member of the staff of the Boston Dispensary.

The physician said he had examined Garrett for a $5,000 policy for life insurance for the Security Mutual Life Insurance Company of Boston.

The doctor said he had passed Garrett as a good risk.

Detailed questioning of Dr. Udelson then began.

Dr. Udelson said he examined Garrett for insurance in Dan Carroll's office in the Scollay Building. He took his reflexes, gave him the eye-pupils test and the knee test, and found he was all right.

SAYS SWIG "FIXED" IT

Dr. Udelson was asked by Atty. Hall: I show you a letter dated Sept. 27, 1929, from the medical director of your insurance company drawing attention to press reports of an accident to Oliver B. Garrett when he was thrown from a sulky at the Marshfield Fair and suffered injuries to the head and legs, and other injuries; do you recall receiving that letter? A.—Yes.

Q—It asks you to make a further examination of Garrett and report on this occurrence, does it not? A.—Yes.

Q—What action did you take? A.—I communicated with Simon Swig, general agent of the company in Boston, and he informed me I need not bother consulting Garrett, as he had taken care of everything.

Q—Do you know how it happened that your examination of Garrett was made in the office of Dan Carroll? A.—No particular reason. I was just asked to go there.

Q—It is not usual to hold such an examination in a place like that, is it? A.—Not usual, no.

Q—When you examined Garrett, you made a test of his hearing to find out whether it was impaired or normal? A.—He had replied to questions asked him and apparently there was no deficiency in his hearing.

Q.—He said nothing to you in regard to the sulky accident, I take it, and I presume the first you knew about it was when you received this letter from the company? A.—Yes.

DENIED PREVIOUS ACCIDENT.

Dr. George B. Beuhler, Boylston st. physician and surgeon, said he examined Garrett at police headquarters on August 12, 1927, after the auto accident in which Garrett and other policemen, members of the liquor squad, were injured.

Q.—Did Garrett deny any previous accident, injury or illness? A.—He did.

Q.—Did he inform you or did you know that on June 23, 1927, less than two months before the accident, that he had received a broken nose and injuries to his teeth in a street disturbance? A.—This is the first time I heard of that.

Q.—Also that on Dec. 14, 1917, while driving a wagon he was thrown to the street, striking his head on the cobblestones and was unconscious for a short time?. A.—This is the first time I heard of that.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Atty. Hall brought out that the Aug. 2, 1927, accident occurred about noon at the corner of Brekeley and Newbury sts. Garrett sitting in the back seat, was thrown through the roof of the car. He was taken to the Massachusetts General Hospital, then went home and was treated by Dr. McCormick. Garrett, the witness said, visited Dr. McCormick three times at the latter's office following treatment at home.

The witness then told of his examination in conjunction with Dr. McCormick. He said:

"Garrett said he was a little nervous, did not sleep and the doctor gave him something for it. I examined him very carefully as to his general physical condition and the places where he was injured.

"His heart and lungs were normal, eyesight good, pulse 96, blood pressure 140, pupils normal, faint abrasion and scar on forehead, abrasions on right and left legs, knees and ankles O. K., nothing abnormal about right shoulder or chest wall, where he complained of being injured."

There was no pain in the ribs where Dr. McCormick said Garrett had received a fracture, the witness testified.

Q. (By Hall)—What was your opinion as to what, if any, injury Garrett had sustained and what the consequences would be? A.—The wound on the forehead had almost disappeared. The abrasions on the leg were scabbed and I felt would clear up and cause no permanent trouble. There was no conformation by the X-ray and he did not complain of injury at that time.

INJURIES NOT SERIOUS

Hall—As you saw him that day would you say the injuries were severe, trivial? A.—Relatively not severe. Not sufficient to produce any disability. He was active, physically.

Dr. Beuhler admitted that he made another examination later on Aug. 22, 1927, at police headquarters with Dr. McCormick again in attendance. Garrett was in uniform.

"He said he had pains in the head, loss of appetite, insomnia," said the witness. "He said he was disabled for three weeks after the accident, and that he had charge of the liquor squad and did not have to work."

The witness then testified concerning an X-ray examination made of Garrett's head by Dr. O'Brien. A week after the X-rays were taken, the witness said, Garrett complained of pains on the right side of the face and eyes and an abscessed tooth.

He went to Dr. Burke, a dentist on Commonwealth ave., and had the tooth extracted. He had been to a Dr. Kellar in Cambridge about the eyes. Garrett claimed that he had lost weight, dropped down from 184 to 148, the witness said, since the automobile accident.

However, Dr. Beuhler said, he found nothing wrong on physical examination.

SAW FILMS OF TEETH

Q. (by Hall)—Was there any physical indication at that time that bore out these complaints he was making? A.—No. It was a purely subjective condition. We all have headaches, but nobody can see them.

The witness said he stopped at Dr. O'Brien's office to see the films of the X-rays taken September 2 and 19, and also viewed the films of the teeth.

Following the testimony of Dr. Buelher, Asst. Atty.-Gen. Lourie continued his examination of the police detail book giving assignments of various patrolmen.

This book had been read into the record early in the day, but the reading was interrupted because of more important testimony.

Three hours were consumed in the reading of the notes, most of which were brief references of routine.

"Oct. 10—Garrett reported for duty at 9 a. m. and was excused at 9 p. m.," was a typical notation.

On other days Garrett was listed as working at night on some special liquor raid.

Garrett, according to the record, worked continuously from Sept. 21 until the end of the year.

"What conclusion did you come to concerning Garrett's condition," asked Mr. Hall.

"I don't think that one plate was sufficient to definitely prove a fracture of the skull," was the reply.

NOT SURE OF FRACTURE

"It would raise a suspicion and furnish ground for argument," continued the witness. "You might find the same line on the other side of the skull. The line on the X-ray made a fracture a possibility, but not a definite conclusion."

Mr. Hall then asked: "Assuming Dr. O'Brien's interpretation of a fracture was correct, would it be a slight or serious fracture?"

"The X-ray showed a straight line," was the reply. "There was no depressions, and the fracture would be of relatively slight effect. The seriousness of the injury depends on whether bone depresses on the brain or nerve centers, or whether hemorrhage occurs. A fracture may be of no consequence unless damage to the brain results."

The next question was: "If any change in the brain results, are there objective symptoms that can be observed by a physician upon examination."

Dr. Buehler said: "There can be little damage to the brain without loss of consciousness. If the conture is serious, it may result in the loss of speech or in paralysis."

"Is there any way by which a doctor can tell how long a fracture has been there?" asked the examiner.

"You cannot tell," replied the witness. "It might be there for six months."

HAD HEADACHES

"As a result of your second examination of Garrett, what was your conclusion as to his condition?"

The physician replied that "the examination was purely subjective. He claimed no disability at the time. He said he suffered from headaches and indigestion."

"At the time of the later examination, did you see any eye tremors?"

"No," said the doctor, "I did not."

"Any vacant expression?"

"Anything but," replied the witness. "He was very keen and alert about his work and what he was doing."

The investigator asked if Garrett showed any signs of suffering or injury at any time.

"No, he did not."

Token of Good Luck Worn by Hall in Garrett Case

Many of the spectators at the Garrett investigation have noticed the strange scarf pin worn by Special Asst. Atty.-Gen. Damon E. Hall. Few know that Attorney Hall has worn that pin for nearly 36 years, and always done it when he opens an important case.

The pin is a gargoyle, worn by the lawyer when he was elected a senior clubman in Williams College. Attorney Hall wears it religiously.

Garrett Expects No Quarter in the Witness Box

Oliver B. Garrett, central figure of the attorney-general's investigation, made a somewhat pathetic plea for sympathy in the corridor outside the hearing room.

"I have no friends," he said, "and nobody comes to aid me. I am fighting a lone battle. I expect to be called to the stand in three or four days."

Garrett's Wife Is Among Spectators Hearing Today

Mrs. Florence Harding Garrett, wife of the pensioned policeman, appeared at the afternoon sessession of the Garrett hearing today and the State House employes on duty got her a seat in the second row of spectators.

She was not generally recognized. She was dressed in a brown carneul coat and black hat, with a light veil covering her face.

While she sat listening to the proceedings, her husband was in the corridor taking a little recreation. This was Mrs. Garrett's first appearance at the investigation.

LEAGUE WON'T STEP ON TOES OF U.S.

Jurists Refuse to Amend Article So It Might Affect Any American War

Geneva, March 4 (AP)—The committee of jurists seeking to harmonize the covenant of the League of Nations with the Kellogg pact, neared the conclusion of its task today by disposing of articles 17 and 18 without changing, rejecting proposed amendments to each.

(Article 17 deals with procedure in the event of a dispute involving non-members of the League, while Article 18 deals with registration of treaties or international agreements of League members.)

Finland wishes to add a paragraph to Article 17 providing that in case two non-members of the League went to war, the council should employ against them sanctions outlined in Article 16.

The committee, however, was virtually unanimous in forseeing this stipulation might, under certain circumstances, bring an unfortunate situation face to face with the United States and declined to accept Finland's suggestion.

Dr. Mariano, Cornejo of Peru urged the committee to amend Article 18 by adding a proviso that the League secretariat should not register any treaty concluded as the result of a war in violation of the Kellogg pact. Some members felt this would place the burden of interpreting the Kellogg pact on the secretariat, while Lord Cecil of Great Britain said it would defeat the article's purpose of publicity for international treaties.

exercises at the statue, under the direction of J. Philip O'Connell, director of public celebrations for the city of Boston.

More than 25 cities and towns were participating in the observance, according to the Tercentenary Committee, and among these were Medford, Arlington, Brockton, Quincy, Winthrop, Newburyport, Springfield, Burlington and Waltham. Dorchester had a celebration of its own, apart from that of Boston.

The Brockton Kiwanis Club held exercises this noon and the afternoon saw exercises in the schools of Winthrop, Medford, Quincy and other places. Quincy also witnessed the placing of an Adams tablet Newburyport heard a proclamation by the acting mayor.

Springfield has a Chamber of Commerce dinner this evening, Burlington a Puritan supper with essay awards and colonial music. Northfield Seminary at Northfield has planned an elaborate observance.

Proclamations were issued by Governor Allen and Mayor Curley.

Herbert Parker, chairman of the committee, pointed out an interesting fact in connection with the charter, declaring that legally it is still in effect. The procedure decreed by Parliament for vacating it —return of it to England and for any committee, and among these were Medford, Arlington, Brockton, Quincy, Winthrop, Newburyport, Springfield, Burlington and Waltham. Dorchester had a celebration of its own, apart from that of Boston.

PROCLAMATION

The Governor's message, which terms the charter as the "fountain of free government in this country," is as follows:

"On the fourth day of March in the year 1629, a charter granted by King Charles I of England to the Governor and Company of Massachusetts Bay in New England, "passed the seals" as it is written in the ancient records, and became the frame of government for a new state.

"It is fitting that the people of our commonwealth, in grateful recognition of the inheritance of political liberty secured by the munitments of constitutional law, should on this day of commemoration pause in the activities of our ordinary duties and vocations to reflect upon the significance of that portentous event in the history of Massachusetts and of the nation.

"Here, for the first time in the history of the American colonies, a chartered and competent government was actually established within the territory of its jurisdiction and authority.

"Here, under the provisions of this historic charter, by authority of the governor, John Winthrop, and of the assistants assembled in the General Court, was created, in all essentials, an independent government of free men.

dry laws was drawn by a leader of the House anti-dry forces.

JAILS AND SPEAKEASIES

He also cited an increase in arrests, crowded court dockets, packed jails more speakeasies than there had been saloons in the old days.

This man was Representative Linthicum of Maryland, a Democrat who has conducted the prohibition fight in the wets of their side of prohibition during the hearings before the committee.

Today, the last to be allotted to the foes of the dry laws, he was the first witness.

He said the anti-prohibition group had presented witnesses from practically every field of human activity. They had revealed, he contended, that liquor could be bought throughout the country; that in some places saloons were wide open, and that the amount of liquor manufactured in stills had increased materially during the decade of prohibition.

All this had taken place, he said, in the face of efforts by the government to prevent it even to the point of denaturants "some of which are destructible poisons, causing blindness, cirrhosis of the liver and at times death."

Linthicum asked for repeal of the 18th amendment in accordance with the Sabath resolution; defended the right of the anti-prohibitionists to seek its repeal; voiced "unalterable opposition" to the re-turn of the saloon, and said:

"We have the Anti-Saloon league and its friends to thank for elimination of the saloon. Let them now help us to eliminate the speakeasies and the underworld who are profiteering under the Volstead Act."

FOR U. S. REFERENDUM

Representative Cochran, Democrat, Missouri, endorsed the Norton resolution, proposing a nation-wide referendum on the 18th amendment.

The committee also received a letter from Walter Liggett, Washington magazine writer, saying that since publication of his charge that the Kansas "snooping squad" was composed of bootleggers and ex-convicts, every member of the squad had been dismissed.

The communication was in reply to recent statements by Attorney General Smith of Kansas, who had challenged Liggett's statement that the Eighteenth Amendment was not enforced in Kansas and one could buy a drink in many Kansas cities 15 minutes after arrival.

Liggett added that Myra McHenry of Wichita, who he said was known generally in Kansas as the "Mother of Prohibition" had written him supporting his statement about lax enforcement in the state.

Demands Liggett Be Called to Kansas

Topeka, Kan., March 4 (AP)—Walter W. Liggett, Washington magazine writer, would be invited to appear before a legislative committee in Topeka to testify concerning liquor law enforcement in Kansas under a resolution presented in the State House of Representatives today by Representative Ben F. Endress, Republican floor leader.

R. I. Democrats Declare for State Dry Law Repeal

Providence, March 4 (AP)—Repeal of the State prohibition enforcement law is included in a list of 11 objectives of the Democratic party in Rhode Island as made public today by Theodore Francis Green, chairman of the State central committee. The objectives are listed in a "declaration of principles" unanimously adopted by the executive committee of the State body.

Abolition of the office of State finance commissioner, stripping the Senate of power to substitute its own nominees after rejecting gubernatorial appointees, reapportionment of both House and Senate, reorganization of administrative departments, increases in the Governor's powers and extension of registration from June 30 to September 30, are among other aims.

Paragraph 7 reads:

"Repeal of the State law for the enforcement of the prohibitory amendment as inconsistent with the refusal of the State to ratify that amendment and with the State's understanding of the rights reserved to it at the time of its ratification of the constitution itself. Pending such repeal the enforcement of this law should be impartial. The Republican hypocrisy in giving the drys the law and the wets the liquor has led to demoralization."

3 BANDITS LOCK MAN IN ICEBOX, STEAL $1200

Worcester Merchant, Bound, Finally Frees Self and Gives Alarm

Worcester, March 4—Armed with revolvers, three men held up Joseph Sawyer in his Hammond st. market today, tied his hands and feet, locked him in the ice box and escaped with $1000 in cash and $200 in checks.

The trio also took Sawyer's watch and chain. He had the large sum of money in the store in anticipation of cashing checks for employes of a factory across the street, who are paid on Tuesdays.

None of the holdup men was masked, according to Sawyer, but they went about their work like old timers.

Sawyer, after some time in the chilly ice box, finally succeeded in turning the handle with his bound hands by backing up the door and fumbling with the catch until he was able to lift it.

Next he butted the telephone receiver off the hook with his head and reported the holdup and his plight to the operator, who notified police.

After vainly trying to cut his wrist bonds by backing up to a butcher knife—and succeeding only in cutting one wrist, Sawyer went to a naighboring shop and had the ropes severed.

The holdup is the second in the district in three weeks, the other having occurred when a paymaster was held up by two armed men in the Quinsigmond Pressed Steel office, Jackson st., and a $475 payroll stolen.

'Evidence' of Child Sacrifice in Jericho

Jerusalem, March 4 (AP)—Remains of a child sacrifice discovered by Sir Charles Marston's expedition in the walls of the ancient biblical city of Jericho are believed to throw a significant light on a Bible verse not thoroughly understood heretofore.

The verse, found in 1 Kings, 16:34, reads:

"In his days did Hiel, the Beth-Elite, build Jericho; he laid the foundation thereof in Abiram, his first born, and set up the gates thereof in his youngest son, Segus, according to the word of the Lord, which He spake by Joshua, the son of Nun."

The expedition, headed by Prof. John Garstang, has found many interesting things in the ruins of the city.

One discovery was that of a charred beam underneath the wall. It was taken to suggest that when Joshua's seven Hebrew priests marched around the walls blowing each a ram's horn, workmen were busy undermining the walls.

Other finds revealed continuous evidences of destruction and conflagration at the time when the Hebrews entered Palestine, about 1200 B. C.

GOODWIN TO BE 'CHASED OUT'

Lowell, March 4—Eliot H. Goodwin, chairman of the civil service commission, will be "chased out of office" by Lieut.-Gov. William S. Youngman as soon as the opportunity presents.

Youngman himself made this promise during an address at a reception given Arthur Salmon, honorary member of Adelbert Ames Camp, U. S. W. V., in Elks Hall.

The civil service commissioner, it was asserted by Lieut.-Gov. Youngman, has "no use for a war veteran" and is incompetent generally.

Archduke Quizzed in Napoleon Gem Sale

New York, March 4 (AP)—Further action by the district attorney's office in the recent sale of the historic Napoleon necklace of Archduchess Maria Theresa today awaited questioning of her grandnephew, the Archduke Leopold, who was present when the necklace, valued by the archduchess at $400,000, was sold for $60,000.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Harold W. Hastings said he would make no prediction as to what action he would take until he heard the archduke's version of the affair. The archduke has already said he knew of the sale, was present when it took place, but had no financial interest in it.

Vienna police in a cablegram to Laurence Steinhardt, counsel for the archduchess, said she received only $7270 from Charles L. Townsend, her former agent, who sold the necklace to D. M. Michel, Fifth ave. jeweler, for $60,000.

They said Townsend in a letter dated Chicago, February 13, inclosing the check, explained the balance of $52,730 had been retained to cover expenses incurred in the sale. Steinhardt said he was still looking for Townsend, whom he had traced to Palm Beach, Fla., from where he departed on February 17 without leaving a forwarding address.

Steinhardt said that on January 14 Townsend, who at that time held a power of attorney from the archduchess to sell the necklace, informed her he had an offer of $175,000, but was advised by the archduchess that the offer was too low.

While returning to his home from Pennsylvania in the new car he had purchased, Samuel W. Blake and his wife, of Passaic, had proceeded beyond Princeton on the highway, when Blake noticed that his headlights were out.

He drove the car to the side of the road and attempted to fix them. His wife was helping him when the New York-bound bus approached. At the same time a truck came into view traveling in the opposite direction. To avoid a collision with the truck, John Davison of Philadelphia, bus driver, swerved the wheel to the right, apparently not noticing the Blake car.

JOBS FOR IDLE, DAVIS' PLAN

Washington, March 4 (AP)—As he entered the cabinet meeting today Secretary of Labor Davis said it would be "far better" to devote to public building construction the $50,000,000 which Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, wants to appropriate to aid the unemployed.

The American workman wants honest employment and a steady job, Davis said, not a dole.

Characterizing the Iowan's proposal as "well intended," the secretary said he did not wish his own views to be regarded as a criticism.

The sum of $50,000,000 proposed, Davis added, would not go very far as a dole. It would mean only $1 a week for 18 weeks to the 3,000,000 men estimated to be out of employment.

Brookhart recently introduced a resolution providing for $50,000,000 to be distributed by the Red Cross to the unemployed.

REBEL AGAINST HIGH PRIEST IN RUSSIA

Copyright, 1930, by Universal Serv., Inc.

Warsaw, Poland, March 4—Scores of priests and laymen of the Orthodox Church are openly revolting against Metropolitan Sergius, acting patriarch, because of his declaration that there is no religious persecution in Soviet Russia.

This revelation was made here by a high churchman.

Open acts of violence greeted Metropolitan Sergius when he attempted to officiate at mass shortly after declaring to newspaper men and foreign correspondents in Moscow that priests had been arrested only for violating laws like any ordinary citizens.

So incensed were many of the church members that a boycott of Metropolitan Sergius was immediately begun. This is quite significant, and points out that there are still considerable numbers of church members and churches in Russia.

Capt. Higgins said later that the secretary was not seriously ill. He is not suffering from influenza, but has a very bad cold which, however, does not keep him in bed.

"BIG 4" IN SESSION

Capt. Higgins asked the secretary to remain at Stanmore for two or three days in order thoroughly to throw off the effects of the cold.

Meanwhile the naval conference began to get back into strids this morning with a meeting of the heads of the delegations at St. James Palace, at which a program was blocked out to be followed when the French return.

Ambassador Fleuriau represented France and Ambassador Gibson acted for Secretary Stimson. The others at the meeting were Prime Minister MacDonald, former Premier Wakatsuki, chief of the Japanese delegation, and Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister.

It was decided that a plenary session could best deal with the work of the experts, which include solution of the global and category tonnage problem and a report on the special and exempt classes of vessels upon which agreement has been reached. With this in view the heads of the delegations will meet again Friday and set a date for a plenary session.

It is hoped the French delegation will be here by Friday's meeting.

Pending Friday's meeting the expert committees will be in full swing. Tomorrow the experts will start on the question of submarines.

The political side of the humanitation of the use of submarines will not be tackled immediately, but the experts will devote their energies at the outset to tonnage questions.

JAPS IN CONFERENCE

The next step in solving Japanese problems will be taken this afternoon when Ambassador Matsudaira and Prime Minister MacDonald planned a long conference at the House of Commons.

After this morning's meeting the British prime minister took occasion to have a lengthy conversation with former Premier Wakatsuki at St. James Palace.

DAILY ANTIQUE
No. 37

Today we show an interesting type of card table which is at least 120 years old. It is of solid mahogany, with hand carving.

The table is owned by Mrs. F. B. Goodwin of 7 Balmoral st., East Milton. It was originally the property of her Grandmother Phippe of Framingham, who married into the Kuhn family of Beacon Hill, in whose house the table stood for many years according to family accounts. The table was given to Mrs. Goodwin's grandmother as a wedding present.

That piece of furniture will be further discussed by an expert in tomorrow's American.

The candlewick embroidery shown in Saturday's American can probably be duplicated in some degree in many an old chest hidden away in New England garrets, with the exception that the names of other patient housewives would be woven into their design.

The embroidery of bed-trappings is an old art, almost as old as history, and it prevailed in many lands. Homer speaks of Helen of Troy embroidering in her palace a large cloth, white as alabaster, with the story of the conflicts in which Trojans and Greeks contended for love of her." The Chinese claim to have practiced the art 3000 years ago

In connection with the Massachusetts Tercentenary Year, the Boston Evening American will publish from day to day interesting specimens of authentic antiques. Readers possessing genuine antiques, particularly articles of Colonial or early American origin or of historic association, are invited to forward photographs and records for publication. In case no photograph is available, the American will send one of its staff cameramen to photograph your antique if you live in Greater Boston. Material should be addressed to "Antique Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston."

YVONNE D'ARCY FACES ORDER TO QUIT U. S.

Los Angeles, March 4 (AP)—Yvonne D'Arcy, actress, and her mother, Mrs. Armande Dimpault, wife of a New York French language newspaper editor, today awaited the outcome of an immigration hearing to decide if they shall be deported to France on grounds of overstaying their leave in the United States.

Miss D'Arcy attracted attention here in 1923 when she filed suit for $200,000 against Granville Sully, son of Daniel J. Sully, once called the "king of the cotton market."

She charged Sully attacked her in her Hollywood home and was awarded $50,000 damages, but Sully later won a new trial.

Immigration officials said Miss D'Arcy returned to France in 1928, coming here again with her mother in December, 1928, on a leave of six months.

The leave was extended until January 20 last, when the two were given notice to quit the country.

After the hearing now in process a report will be made to the Secretary of Labor at Washington for decision.

Today, in the real estate columns of the Classified Ads, you will find scores of opportunities for profitable investment.

Poor Inventor Wins Millions in Royalty

San Francisco, March 4 (AP)—The long struggle of George Carson, once penniless inventor, for a fortune in royalties accruing from his patents on a reverberatory copper smelting furnace, was marked today by another victory.

The annual report of the Carson Investment Company disclosed that the inventor's claims against the American Smelting & Refining Co. had been settled for $1,059,584.

Just how much money has been paid by the big copper mining companies adjudged to have infringed upon Carson's patent never has been made known, but settlements involving 10 other large mining and smelting companies have been made. A number of suits against smaller companies still are pending.

It is estimated that the total amount to be paid by the companies will be somewhere between $7,000,000 and $20,000,000.

WALES ON ROAD TO RECOVERY

Nairobi, Kenya Colony, British East Africa, March 4 (AP)—An official bulletin issued today by physicians to the Prince of Wales, who is ill with malaria, said:

"The Prince of Wales is now convalescing. He expects to leave for Uganda March 9, as originally arranged."

"The Prince has made an excellent patient, and has readily obeyed his doctors' directions. It is not believed that there will be any serious after-effects from the disease.

The physicians and nurses attending Wales have specialized in treatment of malaria, a mosquito-spread disease which always has been particularly terrifying to white men living in tropical Africa.

London, March 4 (AP)—Queen Mary, visiting the Queen Alexandria military hospital here, asked to see specimens of the sub-tertian malarian parasites or germs which have sent her son, the Prince of Wales, to a sick bed at Nairobi.

The Queen spent a long time looking at the microscopic slides which were brought her, and asked numerous questions as to the nature of the bacteria and their methods of attack.

Rothermere Fights "Free India" Policy

London, March 4 (AP)—Lord Rothermere, in today's Daily Mail enunciated the policy of the new British political party toward India, declaring:

"The United Empire party stands for no more surrender to Indian agitators. We should not allow the lives of 320,000,000 Indians to be ruined by the folly of a handful of excited nationalists. For these nationalists do not amount to one per cent of the country's people."

The article criticizes Lord Irwin, the viceroy, for making a "rash promise" of dominion status.

Inheritance Taxes

WHERE inheritance taxes of considerable amount and other substantial bills and fees become payable upon a testator's death, it is the part of wisdom to provide life insurance of an amount that will cover these expenses. Letters From Readers

Says Dominions Are Already Free

Editor Boston American:

Being a stranger, I should perhaps be wiser to ignore the letter of one of your correspondents—J. J. R.

Insofar as his remarks upon the London naval conference are concerned, I entertain no hope of convincing him that the English delegates are as honest and genuine in their endeavors for the maintenance of world peace as are the delegates of the United States.

When he speaks of the golden opportunity for Canada and Australia to be free and independent, does he imply the "freedom and independence" which the citizens of the United States do NOT appear to be enjoying today, in their domestic affairs? If so, may I assure him, as a citizen of one of the countries named, that we would infinitely prefer the mutual obligation and independence of Imperial partnership which we enjoy today.

If he had ever read any reasonable literature about the British Dominions, he would know that we already have complete independence and self-government. The mutual obligation is a mater of good will, an all powerful factor.

Among other things, our freedom—of which J. J. R. is so hopelessly ignorant—permits of decent alcoholic refreshment, and the same freedom makes murder and assault very rare occurrences. And, in spite of "peaceful penetration" by capital, I can assure him that Canada and Australia will remain, from choice, what they are—British.

Ex-Solon Approves Those Pension Bill

Editor Boston American:

Regarding the old age pension bill introduced by Wendell P. Thore, I want to say that it is the best bill. I do not believe in allowing the sider citizens of our state to be dependants of the public welfare department. I voted for the old age pension bill that Mr. Thore was interested in when I was a member of the Legislature.

Scores Conditions In Saloon Days

Editor Boston American:

Two of your letters seem along similar lines. One by Alvan L. Stinson says "voluntary abstinence is the only hope of rum control; the other by Mrs. Cassell "holds birth control is not a man's affair," although is said opposed to support the child and might claim "an equal right." In both cases it seems "conscience and will of the individual govern."

Mr. Stinson thinks no one has been benefited by present "dry" conditions, but is unfamiliar with those before them. One has but to consider the "Old Cove" and "Peninsular" sections of Boston to say nothing of the South and West Ends, in pre-war time, to realize the change. As a "neighborhood worker" and clinical practitioner, my experience with beer drinking, booze fighting men and women would last any one for a lifetime, without liquor. Many times men never came home with a cent of wages. Wives and children went without proper food or clothing. Often my attendance, without fee, of women in childbirth was given where not a penny was in the "home."

Voluntary abstinence, indeed! That goes well with the oldtime moral suasion, "pledge and prayer," offered by Dr Goldstein as a solution of our wet and dry situation. They might help some people who had "will and conscience." The vows of the Scouts and the Youth Crusaders and the 4-H Clubs, with the "Boston Plan," brings the whole country into harmony for the happiness of man and womankind. "And when the victory shall be complete, when there shall be neither a slave nor a drunkard on earth, how proud the title of that land which may truly claim to be the birthplace and cradle of both those revolutions that shall have ended in victory"—(Abraham Lincoln, at Springfield, Ill., February 22, 1842). Let's all "pledge" and "work" to that "end!"

Prof. Carver Cites Mormon Conservation

Editor Boston American:

Economics has been called the science of statesmanship. Statesmanship is the art of nation-building. One good way to study the art of nation-building is to study it in miniature. One can study it in miniature in the early colonies on the Atlantic coast and in the Mormon colonies in Utah.

I have long been interested in the Mormon policy. It is one of the most interesting and instructive experiments in the world. It throws a great deal of light on the art of nation-building. It, therefore, furnishes a laboratory for the study of science of statesmanship.

The Mormon leaders started with nothing and built a great commonwealth. They found a desert and made it bloom and blossom as the rose.

Such things can be accomplished in only one way. That way is the economizing of manpower. The economy of manpower is, therefore, the key to the whole science of statesmanship and of the whole art of nation-building. It is only by economizing man-power that great masses of material can be moved, that rivers can be dammed, ditches dug and land irrigated. It is only by economizing man-power that cities can be built, population fed and energy be spared for the arts and graces of life.

The Mormons did not even start with a mass of highly educated or skilled man-power. They started, as a general rule, with very commonplace people.

While they were sturdy, hard-working people, they were not conspicuously gifted or learned.

Man-power may be economized first by cultivating sound personal habits among the people. They who waste their substance in riotous living are wasting more than wealth. They are wasting their own vital energy, their own man-power.

Man-power is also economized by discovering hidden talent and giving it a chance to function. Any system which can discover latent genius and make it active is a factor in nation-building. To discover hidden genius is better than to discover a hidden gold mine.

Man-power is also economized by co-operation, or by working together harmoniously. Every time two or more persons work at cross purposes, each one trying to interfere with the other, there is a waste of man-power. To eliminate that form of waste is one of the major purposes of statesmanship.

By co-operation I do not mean merely the formal organization of co-operative societies. I mean also the general willingness to work together for the common good. When a man works alone for the common good, he does not accomplish much and gets discouraged. When he works as one of 10, his work is multiplied by 10 and he begins to see results. That is encouraging. When he works as one of a thousand, his work is multiplied by a thousand.

The trick is to get co-operation for the common good to number not tens of hundreds, but thousands, tens of thousands, and millions. That is the very highest order of statesmanship. I do not think that the Mormons have quite achieved that result, but they have at least done something in that direction. The rest of the country can at least learn something from observing them.

T. N. CARVER.

ALL-BRAN RELIEVES COMMON AILMENT

Millions Already Know Its Effectiveness

One of the most common ailments in the world is constipation. It is also one of the most dangerous diseases known to mankind. It is the source of many complaints which strip life of its pleasure.

Many people have constipation in a milder form and do not know it. Perhaps they are suffering with headaches, backaches, indigestion, bad breath, and general physical depression. These are often symptoms.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is positively guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation or money will be refunded.

The most frequent cause of constipation is lack of roughage in food. Modern, soft foods seldom contain enough.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains roughage. It is the original ALL-BRAN, introduced by Kellogg for relieving millions of people from the scourge of constipation and slavery to habit-forming pills and drugs. It also adds needed iron to the blood.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is delicious with milk or cream. Over cereals and fruits. In soups. In cooked foods. Your grocer has ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

600 TRAPPED IN FRENCH FLOOD; 20 ARE KILLED

Toulouse, France, March 4 (AP)—While the swirling waters of the swollen Agout river surged about them 600 workmen were imprisoned today in a flooded spaghetti factory at Villemur awaiting rescue.

The town itself was like a semi-submerged island in the center of a lake covering an area of 60 square miles or more. Many old houses collapsed under the sudden rising of the river.

The torrent carried all sorts of debris toward the mother river, the Garonne, which, itself a freshet, was believed to have taken more than a score of lives as it devastated the region north and east of Toulouse.

Hundreds of houses and factories collapsed, roads and railways were cut and bridges swept away. Conditions were said to be worse than at any time within the last half century.

The Correze, Garonne, Tarn, Aude and Agout rivers and their tributaries all were out of their banks and reported to be rising rapidly, with many places isolated and others heavy losers in the battle with the flood waters.

At Montauban a pig was seen swimming toward the river bank with a cat clinging to its back. The city was cut off from the outside world, without drinking water, gas or electricity. Twenty houses collapsed.

10,000 MANILA PUPILS STRIKE

Manila, March 4 (AP)—More than 7000 high school students struck here today, joining those of Manila high school who have walked out twice in the last few days through a controversy growing out of their resentment against an American teacher, Miss Mabel Brummitt.

The total number of striking students reached 10,000 as those from West high, South high and East high joined the original strikers. Other students also were contemplating joining the walkout.

Demands of the striking students broadened as their ranks grew. The original strike at North high school a few days ago sought the removal of Miss Brummitt. Miss Brummitt was removed and four students suspended as ringleaders of the walkout.

The North high students thereupon struck again, demanding reinstatement of their four expelled classmates. As the strike spread to other schools today, the students demanded dismissal of the acting secretary of public instruction, the director of education and the principal of North high school.

Two students were mobbed today for refusing to join the walkout. Seven strikers were arrested.

Aimee Defendant in Two Civil Suits

Los Angeles, March 4 (AP)—Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, is named defendant in two civil suits on file here today. One suit, filed by Carl Brunner, San Bernardino, sought $148,360 damages for alleged breach of contract to establish a four-square gospel camp in the San Bernardino Mountains, and the other, entered by Harold M Simpson, scenario writer, asked for $8000 which he charged was the price of a screen story she hired him to write.

Protest Germany's Poison Gas in China

Peiping, China, March 4 (AP)—Reuters' correspondent today reported that the Chinese chamber of commerce had telegraphed the German consul-general at Shanghai expressing anxiety at many reports that Germany was shipping large quantities of poison gas to China for use by forces of President Chiang Kai-Shek.

It was declared that such methods are contrary to international law.

SCENES TAKEN FROM FAMILIAR PLAYS ACTED BY BRIGHTON CLUBWOMEN

Annual Dramatic Day for Brightelmstone Members

THE Brightelmstone Club observed its annual dramatic day, presenting a repertoire of six acts and scenes from familiar theatrical vehicles, Mrs. Stewart A. Colpitts, president, presided.

It was "Twice Told Tales," revealing from the stage of the splendid clubhouse, owned and financed by Brighton clubwomen, intriguing skits and performances, in which could be discerned familiar faces and familiar figures. The committee on art and lecture had charge of the afternoon.

There were scenes from such pieces as "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "The Scarlet Letter," "Little Women," "Romeo and Juliet," "The Courtship of Miles Standish," and many others. Mrs. Henry W. Inman directed the affair.

Each year the club anticipates this day for not only does it call for the histrionic talent of the membership, but arouses the interest of the membership at large in recognizing such ability among the members.

A social hour followed the performance and for this Mrs. Henry W. Beedle, Mrs. George C. Howe, Mrs. Edwin L. Drowne and Mrs. Everett A. Kelley were the hostesses.

To the following women did the club extend thanks and thunderous applause for an afternoon of joy and delight: Mrs. Louise P. Nash, Mrs. Samuel C. Allen, Mrs. G. Harry Walton, Mrs. Edward E. Cox, Mrs. George M. Innes, Mrs. Leon E. Smith, Mrs. Fred B. Wheeler, Mrs. F. R. Henderson, Miss Amy M. French, Mrs. W. H. Short, Mrs. Edward W. Schaller, Mrs. Seldon F. James, Mrs. W. E. BANGS BURGESS' PARTY

Mrs. Joseph A. Mahoney presided over a dinner in honor of the dean of American poets, Dr. Edwin Markham, at the Hotel Lincoln-shire, where celebrated men and women gathered.

A purse was presented to the poet at the close of dinner in appreciation of his splendid contribution to poesy. A purse taken up from his many admirers and friends.

Mrs. Mahoney, introducing the various guests, spoke briefly of their personal history, never failing to remind that those who were in the room were there because of their profound respect for Dr. Markham and their interest in his works.

Ex-Governor Youngman brought the greetings of the Commonwealth and paid high tribute to Dr. Markham. Mrs. Youngman remained, however. Among the guests were Capt. and Mrs. Clarence J. McKenzie, Mrs. George Copp Warren, Mrs. Frederick H. Bishop, Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, Mr. and Mrs. Bradbury Cushing, Mrs. Jane Gordon Weltman, Henry Lee Higginson, Mrs. Nelson W. Howard, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Gulesian, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Goldsmith, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Allen, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Scully, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Swift, Miss Helen M. Winslow, Capt. and Mrs. Lewis Hewitt.

Naomi Hewitt, cellist, played several selections.

Mrs. Mahoney, as president of the New England Women's Press Association, has had Dr. Markham at one of the Twilight Talks in her studio in Chestnut st. He read from his poems. Of course you all know "The Man With the Hoe."

WOMEN'S CITY CLUB

A comprehensive program of lectures and entertainments begins tonight and continues throughout the month for club members. In the clubhouse at 8:15 tonight, the Madrigal Singers offer a fine selection of songs. This entertainment is sponsored by the sub-committee on music.

Bata Kindal Angoza Ibn Lobsgola will tell "The Story of My Life," in Ford Hall, March 7, at 7:45 p. m. Born in the bush region of western Africa, south of Timbuktu, he was brought up in the Judaist religion as a member of a small sect which observed the Jewish rites in the midst of fetish worshipping tribes. As a young man he made a 45-day journey to the Gulf of Guinea and was there kidnaped and taken to Scotland.

There he was educated in the ways of the white man. He afterward returned to his tribe. He has profited well and been finely educated. He has taught at the Brothers College in Jerusalem and at the Great Benevolent Coptic School in Tant, Egypt. He has lectured in the department of social anthropology at Oxford University.

His story should be thrilling. It should be replete with information and detail. He will tell well of the organization and the curious tribal customs of his people. He will reveal some strange and exciting secrets of Africa which no white man could discover for himself.

MAYOR WALKER IN WARNING TO N. Y. 'REDS'

New York, March 4 (INS)—As New York Communists continued their plans today for a gigantic demonstration on Thursday they faced a warning by Mayor Walker that he would not permit the unemployment problem to be used in the streets for "lawless propaganda."

Mayor Walker, on returning from a vacation in Florida, issued a statement declaring any riotous demonstration would be suppressed, and at the same time assuring the Communists of the right to free speech and peaceable assembly.

Nine different factions of the Communist party announced they would combine here for Thursday's demonstrations. The chief assemblage will take place at Union sq.

No Red Thursday for Chicago, but Blue One

Chicago, March 4 (AP)—There will be no "Red Thursday" in Chicago this week, for the police have made different color arrangements, calling for blue—policeman blue.

Thursday has been designated as the time for an international demonstration by the unemployed. Russian communists, Deputy Police Commissioner John Stege said, are sponsoring it.

No marching or demonstrations will be tolerated here, Policemen will be stationed at all meetings. They will not interfere unless the government is attacked. In that case they have orders to disperse the assemblies.

Stege said that "unquestionably Communist agents are taking advantage of the present unrest to instill ideas of riots in the minds of the unemployed, who are mostly aliens."

Gov. Long Apologizes for 'Pajama Party'

New Orleans, March 4 (AP)—The Times-Picayune today said Governor Huey P. Long, accompanied by his staff colonel, Seymour Weiss, yesterday boarded the German cruiser Emden, in the harbor for Mardi Gras, and apologized for having received Commander Lothar Von Arnault De La Periere, commander of the vessel, in lounging robes and slippers when the naval officer paid an official call Sunday. According to the paper, after the Governor's visit the incident was closed when the Emden fired a salute of 21 guns.

The Governor went aboard the cruiser in formal dress while Col. Weiss was in full staff regalia.

Commander De La Periere, accompanied by Rolf Jaeger, German consul here, called upon the Governor at his hotel suite to pay their respects following the arrival of the Emden.

Long, according to the Times-Picayune, received the Germans in a pair of green silk pajamas, a blue and red lounging robe and blue bedroom slippers.

The paper quoted Consul Jaeger as having remarked to Col. Weiss after departing that "the Governor's raiment to receive the German commander is an insult to the German government and I demand an apology immediately. If the apology is given, then the matter ends right here."

Alice White May Be Married Today, If—

Kansas City, March 4 (INS)—Miss Alice White, the film star, may be married to Sydney Barlett, an aspirant to the films, in Chicago today — providing the "marriage impulse" seizes them.

Barlett said so during a "leg stretching" pause here last night.

Barlett, appeared distressed when reporters encountered them.

"We're just going to visit my mother in Chicago," he faltered. Asked about their marriage plans, if any: "Let me say it this way. Marriage is a sort of impulse, isn't it? It's liable to happen any time. We may and may no the married in Chicago.

POPE WARNS OF 'YOUTH REVOLT'

Vatican City, March 4 (AP)—Pope Pius, receiving 200 Lenten preachers in Consistorial hall today, called their attention to "two great plagues afflicting modern humanity."

The first was, he said, an inclination among young people to resent all kinds of surveillance over them, even that of their parents.

The second, he declared, to be the shrinkiness of the press, which discusses everything without any respect, particularly toward young people.

The Pope's only approach to controversial subjects was when he said the catalog and guide for reading by young men published by the official Fascist Littorio Press, was in some respects misleading. He mentioned especially a list of recommended books as quite contrary to what it should be, since most of the volumes praised were on the index.

Pope Pius made clear, however, that he did not wish his criticism to be construed as hostility toward Fascism. He believed the offending page really constituted a first draft and said it should be corrected and bettered.

NO BLACK DUCK INDICTMENT

Providence, March 4—The Federal Grand Jury has refused to indict Charles Travers of New Bedford, lone survivor of the rum runner Black Duck, it was revealed today by U. S. Atty. Henry M. Boss, Jr.

Boss sought indictment on a smuggling charge, he said, but despite evidence that Travers was skipper of the Black Duck and that many cases of liquor were found aboard after three of the crew had been killed by coast guards, the Grand Jury returned a no bill.

Travers is being sought by the coast guard as a result of their firing on the speed boat Madame X Thursday night after its failure to heave to on command.

Coast guard officials claim Travers is skipper of Madame X.

"FIRST A SHADOW, then a sorrow"

[Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, 1807-1882]

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—men who would keep that trim, proper form, eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuses. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain the lithe, youthful, modern figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette a man ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"It's Toasted." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"It's toasted"

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough.

*Be Moderate! . . . Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

WHILE WINTER INVENTS its own variations in the sounds of the surf outside, John Hays Hammond, Jr., has been engaged in inventing radical improvements on phonograph reproductions at his picturesque Gloucester home, Abbadia Maro. Wellman of New York, Miss Eleonora Sears, Mrs. Codman, and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Goodrich of Boston are among the favored few who have seen these inventions. Wise Mother

Here are Mary and Eileen, husky young daughters of Mrs. J. McDonough, 14 Shep Ave., Boston. Their mother's experience shows what can be done to keep children robust. She says: "Since I found out how good California Fig Syrup is, I have kept some in the house. It always helps my children. I give it for upsets or colds."

When your child's breath is bad; tongue is coated; or he is headachy, bilious, feverish, without appetite or energy, give him a little California Fig Syrup. See how its gentle cleansing helps a child. Appetite, digestion and assimilation improve. Stomach and bowels are toned and strengthened.

The genuine always bears the word California. So look for that when buying. Seven million bottles used a year proves its merit!

This Modern World

Colors Both Harmonize and Contrast; New Use for Pastels

WHILE the colors for our suits and coats this spring are misty or dulled, the dress colors, on the other hand, are clear and bright, seeming to be the more lively counterpart of the coat shades. Individuality plays such a big role in the pageant of fashion that there are light pastel shades for dresses and blousers of equal importance with the more vivid colors.

The bright shades are smartly employed to strike a note of contrast with the coat or suit. The new use of pastels, or of vivid colors, is to effect harmonies with one another, or with the main costume.

Strikingly vivid contrasts make the costume pictured outstandingly smart. It is of black crepe, figured in white flower design and developed on long slim lines—the elbow length sleeves formed of two circular cape sections, wide circular pieces on each side of the skirt complementing them, and adding the necessary swirl and movement of the new season's style.

A belt of vivid red suede leather, caught with silver buckle, a red suede pouch bag, and brimmed hat of cherry red Panamalac straw, trimmed with band and appliqué bows of shirred grosgrain ribbon in the same shade.

BLACK suede one-strap pumps are worn, and the costume is strikingly individual for spring and summer wearing.

Prints limit their gay color combinations to two or three predominating colors this season. The basic color will be one of those charted for popularity during the coming season. Brown, navy blue, black, green will be dark foils for peach tones, for white and shades of blue, for henna tones and for beige.

Small designs are largely favored and the flower garden is their inspiration. Flat crepe and crepe de chine use the smaller patterns and chiffon and ninon the more luxurious blooms.

The weave of the fabric gives interest to the design as in the instance of the print that is superimposed on a jacquard weave. This is a new type of print that is especially smart for sportswear.

In a print, black and white has a crispness and delicacy achieved by no other color combination.

PEARLS increase in smartness as they decrease in size, and red pearls woven in necklaces top the list. A crowd resistance in bands of white, gold and brown pearls is a clever new note for the semitailored frock. Another necklace is made of rings that are pearl covered. Woven pearls and pearls made into chains are dainty accessories for the dark frock. Pearls in color to match a dainty pastel frock are larger in size and shorter in length than the strands of seed pearls.

HARP CONCERT BY FESTIVAL PLAYERS

By MOSES SMITH

The tenth annual National Harp Festival, which is being held now in Boston, under the auspices of the National Association of Harpists, was opened with an unusual concert in Symphony Hall last night.

The harp is an ancient and honorable instrument. It has furnished entertainment for kings and their courts. The simultaneous development of the modern orchestra, on the one hand, and the piano, on the other, has submerged the many beauties of harp tone. Now, however, the harp is being revived as a popular instrument.

This was brought home to us last night by a stage filled with harps—some fifty of them, which were heard together in two numbers at the opening of the program—we had almost written "ceremonies." Fifty harps is a lot of harps, as the schoolboy would say. Later in the program, there were two groups of pieces played by an ensemble of eight harps manned, or rather womanned, by artist-students of the Curtis Institute.

Georges Laurent, flutist, and Jean Bedetti, 'cellist, of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, joined Carlos Salzedo, master harpist, and president of the Association, in playing pieces of Rameau. Cobina Wright sang "Sainte" and Five Popular Greek Melodies by Ravel, accompanied on the harp by Marietta Bitter.

But the piece de resistance of a very long concert—too long—was Mr. Salzedo's Concerto for Harp and Seven Wind Instruments. This piece was a novelty, to say the least. It is written in ultra-modern idiom. Aside from these observations, frankly, we could make nothing of it. Perhaps a second hearing—but when a second hearing?

Braves Take Spring Training Seriously at St. Pete Camp

M'KECHNIE TO BUY CATCHER FOR TRIBE

By NICK FLATLEY

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 4—The Braves have changed—and how. That was most noticeable when your correspondent slid into their unpretentious new camp.

No longer are they surrounded by flunkeys and waiters, and class and eclat and all that sort of thing. No longer do they dispense small talk in a gilded lobby, and dine off golden dishes.

They are now parked in a big wooden ark of a hotel, with no frills. They gang around in a barrack-like series of rooms. They gather of nights in a small waiting room, and talk baseball.

Nick Flatley

And the chance will do the ball club good. It always has been our notion that too much splurge was bad for athletes, and the serious interest that's shown in the national pastime here would indicate that we were correct.

Will McKechnie, the manager, wants a more serious team any Brave outfit has been for a number of years, and he seems to be getting what he wants. A bit of the air of an old-time baseball team in this training camp, which looks like good news for home.

OUT TO SIGN CATCHER

Will not only is Nick driving his young men sternly, but also is getting ready to sign up a new catcher. A deal is about to be consummated.

"This club needs one more real catcher to be good," he remarked this chilly a. m. "Try to get one," we countered pertly.

"I know of two I can get, good major league catchers," he came back surprisingly, "but they're not exactly the type I had in mind. There is one bird I am shooting at, and I think I have a chance. But I'll have another experienced backstop long before the season opens."

Bill wasn't panning the present crop, but they're mentally scant Al Spohrer, who is recovering from the Shires quarrel, is the only regular around, apart from Hank Gowdy, whose years make him impossible as anything but a spasmodic worker.

Bill Cronin of Newton is back, but Bill still has to show major league stuff. Mister McKechnie will prove that he's a good pilot if he can dig up a catcher. And he says he can. The same William takes very good care of his boys. He advises them about everything from sunburn to income tax bills.

WAITER FOR BOY

When Bill Dunlap, the husky outfielder who used to be a pitcher, was being operated on for appendicitis, the manager dug up the surgeon who did the carving, and sat four hours in the hospital waiting for his boy here to come down from operating room.

Which reminds us of a good story. Dunlap, who is just 20, although he weighed a ton, was stricken suddenly with pain here, the doctors examined him, told him the trouble and asked if he was willing to have his big appendix removed.

"Sure," the suffering kid piped, "and while you're about it you might take out the both of them."

The Tribal manager continuously bemoans the loss of Dunlap, whom he characterizes as one of the most natural looking sluggers to come along since Babe Ruth.

But there's another distance hitter on the club, Walter Berger, the expensive swatter from the Coast. Walter, who may be converted into the third baseman, takes a lusty swipe and sends the baseball places. He had a bad day Saturday, but immediately galloped over to the Yankee park, and borrowed a couple of bats from Babe Ruth personally.

KIDS HUSTLE

These kids have a hustle and sincerity that would do many a veteran lots of good. Take the case of Gene Robertson, who came up with Tribe from the Yankees last year. He hasn't reported yet, nor has anything been heard from him.

The club is about willing to ask waivers on Gene. Looks as if he decided he had a job cinched when Lester Bell was let go and doesn't care to work too much in the spring.

That's why Berger is getting tried out at third. But a new and good looking candidate has appeared in Red Rollings, who tried to break in with the Red Sox a few years ago.

Red has been burning things up on the coast since that time, and now is back here, via the draft route. He has broadened out a lot

MR. BOSTON

by JACK CONWAY

Jack Conway

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 3—Mr. Boston was down to the station of the Atlantic Coast Line this morning to see Bill Kennedy of Commonwealth ave., Newton, off for Boston. Bill, accompanied by Mrs. Kennedy, has been here for two weeks.

"I have a choice trophy of the Sharkey-Scott bout in one of my trunks," said Bill.

"What kind of a trophy?"

"The gloves with which Jack hammered Scott down to defeat."

Sharkey came along with Mrs. Sharkey to bid the Kennedys adieu.

"Who is going to get the gloves with which you will knock out Max Schmeling?" asked Kennedy.

"I'll need a freight car of gloves to satisfy all the people who want the gloves I'm going to use when I battle Max. Maybe I'll fool everybody and save the winning gloves for Jack, Jr., when he grows up he might get a kick out of having the gloves which his daddy wore the night he won the heavyweight championship of the world."

TOOT! TOOT! TOOT!

And, in a few minutes, another party which came from Boston to see the fight, was on its way back home.

"The horse races end Saturday with the Florida derby," said Mr. Boston. "A week from now Miami Beach will look like a deserted village."

JOHNNY BRASSILL of Cambridge, who did a very good job at refereeing in the Loughran-Charles bout, has left for home. He will stop over at Washington to visit a brother who is employed in the engraving department of the government. Brassill made a fine impression with those who saw him officiate in the Loughran-Charles event. Massachusetts has reason to be proud of his work.

JOHNNY BUCKLEY has signed Henry Lamar to battle Joe Bonovio of Binghamton, N. Y., at the New York Garden on March 10. Buckley is also anxious to pit Lamar against Moise Boquillon, French heavyweight, who made such a good showing against Jim Maloney up to the time he had his left eye cut.

AL LACY, Sharkey's trainer, will leave for Boston by boat on Wednesday. Al, a shrewd second, tried to fool Scott as to the count when he suffered his first knockdown in the second round of his bout with Sharkey.

"The British champion went down in Sharkey's corner when hit on the chin with a straight left jab. Referee Lou Magnolia started the count.

"When Magnolia counted 'five' Lacy shouted 'three' in an effort to make Scott think 'three' was the count. Phil got up at six of Magnolia's count and Lacy's strategy didn't accomplish anything in this particular case.

"Sharkey has not been in a bout since Lacy has been associated with him.

TONY PALAZOLO, Sharkey's other trainer who has been with him since he was getting into condition for his battle with Harry Wills, leaves for New York the first part of next week.

Palazolo will probably be back in Boston early next week, while Sharkey will probably arrive home around March 17."

Kaye Don and Racer Arrive in New York

New York, March 4 (INS)—Bringing his Sunbeam motor car, the "Silver Bullet," with which he expects to smash the world's record of 231 miles an hour, Kaye Don, English automobile racer, will arrive there today on the Berengaria. Don's car is said to be able to attain a speed of from 240 to 260 miles an hour.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the Post classified columns.

BRUIN LEADER OUT OF GAME UNTIL PLAYOFF SERIES

Capt. Fred Hitchman Dutch Gainor

Hitchman sustained a fracture of the jaw in the game between the Bruins and Ottawa last Saturday, when Eddie Shore hit the puck, which caromed off Hitchman's chin. Dutch Gainor is shown above holding a glass of water for his mate while the injured star waits for the doctor to get to work. Hitch will be in the playoff series. At right is shown an X-ray photo of the injury. The fracture clearly is shown in the photo.

Mulrooney Makes Hit as Red Sox Pitcher

By JOE CASHMAN

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 4—Frank Mulrooney, a handsome Irish lad, is the talk of the Red Sox camp today.

After repeatedly refusing to do any real pitching on the grounds that he wasn't ready, he finally stepped out in the first session of the second week of practice. And how he stepped.

Nobody paid any particular attention to him when he first appeared on the hill, but after seeing several batters nearly break their backs trying to hit his peculiar delivery everybody began to watch him and they saw plenty.

Up would come the ball towards the plate fast and straight as an arrow, but just as the batter would start to swing, out would sail the agate beyond the reach of the stick.

"Hey, cut that out," bellowed Coach Jack McCallister, as soon as he perceived the funny tricks the ball was doing.

"Cut what out?" queried Mulrooney.

"Putting stuff on the ball the first time out," replied the coach.

"I'm not putting a thing on the ball," came back the hurler. "That's my natural delivery. Watch closely and you'll see."

MAKES BALL HOP

McCallister did watch. And, sure enough, the kid was telling the truth. Shooting the ball sidearmed, without making the least attempt to put anything on it, he would cause it to take the wierdest sort of hops.

"Holy cow," remarked Big Ed Morris as he looked the lad over from behind the backstop, "if he has that much stuff on the ball just tossing it, I'd sure hate to be up there when he is bearing down."

"So would I," chimed in Bobby Reeves, a pretty fair hitter. "I was up there a few minutes ago and couldn't figure the delivery out at all. Even when he warned me beforehand, I couldn't hit anything but the air. He has a natural fadeaway or I never saw one."

"He certainly has," chirped Charlie Berry. "I almost wrenched my back swinging at the ball. Most times I missed. When I did connect, I couldn't do more than pop up."

President Bob Quinn, who had been watching Mulrooney carefully all this time, then put his oar in.

"I'm convinced," said the prexy, "that that freak delivery which would require great effort on the part of the average hurler, comes natural to Mulrooney.

"If that is all he has, he would probably have his trouble getting by a full game with it. After a few innings the batters would be likely to get wise to the sail the ball takes and cease going after it. As a relief pitcher, however, he ought to prove invaluable with his delivery.

"I am surprised to see that he has such a ball, but I know he had something. Scout Pat Monahan, who picked him up for me out in his native town of Mallard, Iowa, was loud in his praise of him.

"I sent him up to Pittsfield, where he won 15 games in 21 starts and turned in a better record than such fine prospects as Lisenbee, Simmons and Durham."

Mulrooney is 23 years old, stands five feet, eleven inches in his stocking feet, and tips the scales at 175 pounds. Before Monahan found him, he had seen service in the Western League and Southern Association. With his blue eyes, black wavy hair and an omnipresent smile, he looks more like an actor than a ball player.

He doesn't think there is anything unusual about his delivery, though everybody else does, and claims he can show far more stuff when in shape.

If the weather doesn't warm up very soon, the Sox will have to practice in the afternoon instead of the morning. It was far too cold yesterday A. M. to play ball and Manager Heinie Wagner waited until noon before sending the boys out.

The sun was shining strongly at that time and it wasn't so bad, but the athletes had to keep moving pretty lively to keep from shivering, just the same.

Morning or afternoon, it doesn't make much difference when the gang works out right now, but it will after tomorrow, when the fielders arrive.

There will be 43 players in camp then, and it is Wagner's intention to split the squad in two and have one group out from 10 to 12 and the other from 12 to 2. If he has to wait until noon to start, he will have to keep several players out until 4 o'clock, and the wind makes playing unpleasant after 3 p. m.

The natives, however, say it will warm up shortly. The Sox certainly hope so.

Jack Dempsey Is Adopted by Indians

Cleveland, March 4 (INS)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion and now a fight promoter, today is a member of the tribe of Chippewa Indians.

The ex-champ was adopted last night by a tribe of Chippewa Indians, brought here to attend the Ohio Sportsmen's Show, which is now in progress. Dempsey is acting as master of ceremonies.

The name given him by the Indians is "Chief Gedde Do Nina," or, in plain English, "Big Fighter."

Banaski Makes Short Work of Jack Kogut

Roanoke, Va., March 4 (AP)—John Banaski, Chicago, who meets Pinky Gardner in the first of the light heavyweight elimination wrestling contests for the title under the National Boxing Association in Schenectady on March 14, defeated Jack Kogut, Canadian, in straight falls here last night, the first in 24 minutes and the second in 37 minutes. He used a hook-scissors hold to obtain both falls.

B. C. FRESHMAN IN CASEY 600

Mr. Frank Brennan, a noted track authority in New York City and master of ceremonies for the annual Knights of Columbus games there a week from tomorrow night, pays Jack Ryder, Boston College track coach, a compliment by accepting the entry of Donald Fleet, B. C. freshman, for the famous "Casey 600" the feature event of the meet a week from tomorrow night.

Brennan has been compiling one of the best fields ever for this race and included Fleet on Jack Ryder's say so. Fleet has never before competed in a championship race of this calibre.

But Ryder sent his entry and Brennan accepted it, stating that Ryder was a good-enough judge of track talent to allow Fleet's entry in the "Casey 600."

Gibson will be among the entries this season. So will Phil Edwards, the colored sensation recently graduated from New York University, Eddie Roll and Eddie Blake of the B. A. A. Other star performers are being lined up and Bernie McCafferty of Holy Cross and Fete Bowen of Pittsburgh are likely to enter.

O'DOUL SIGNS CONTRACT

Winter Haven, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Frank "Lefty" O'Doul, kingpin of National League hitters last season, wired Burt Shotton today he had signed his contract and is leaving for the Philadelphia National League training camp here immediately.

Butch Klein, the young home run hitter, is now the only regular of the team who is said to have withheld his signature to a 1930 contract. Pinkie Whitney, third baseman, who had been referred to as a hold-out, has signed his contract.

Six-Day Riders Lay Back on Bars

New York, March 4 (AP)—A very dull session of riding was exhibited from 3 a. m. throughout the sprints at the international six-day bicycle race today. Not one jam was started, nor one lap gained by any of the combinations. The slim crowd diminished to a handful of spectators during the dull riding.

The three favorite teams of the race, McNamara and Winter, Belloni-Debaets and Letourner-Brocardo, are in a triple tie for leadership, two laps ahead of their nearest rivals.

Crimson Sextet 10-7 Favorite Over Yale

HARVARD will be a 10 to 7 favorite to beat Yale at the Garden in the second game of the H-Y hockey series next Saturday night.

The Crimson sextet is highly elated at turning back the Elis in their own rink, and are confident that Harvard will be in the win column again Saturday.

Coach Joe Stubbs gave his players a well-deserved rest Monday. It was found after the struggle in the New Haven Arena that practically every Harvard player was considerably bruised.

No serious injuries from the clash have resulted for Harvard, however, and Stubbs expects his team to be back to normal by today.

MAY FACE BRUINS

Harvard will try to arrange more scrimmages with the Bruins this week, and if this can be arranged, the collegians are sure to benefit greatly.

Yale, though beaten, is still the greatest aggregation of stick handlers that New Haven has ever produced. Yale was much faster on the runners, and played a more open game than did the visiting Crimson pucksters. The Eli forwards play constantly on the attack, and do very little back checking.

This wrinkle kept Harvard on the defense during most of the second and third periods of the first game. It also proved a costly mistake in the first overtime when Putnam and Batchelder jumped the puck, catching the Yale forward line napping and allowing Puttle to slam home the deciding tally.

PLAY TO OPEN UP

With one game to the good already, and the added advantage of playing on familiar ice, Harvard is expected to play an open game against Yale Saturday. The Crimson can afford to take chances now since it has two shots at the title on its home rink.

In fact, the Harvard players themselves say that only the suggested kind of hockey will serve them to trip Yale in the second tilt. Harvard must give up playing defensive hockey and carry the fight into Yale's territory all the time.

It is interesting to note that Wood and Putnam, the two football signal barkers who outgeneraled Yale in the Stadium last fall, also featured in putting the bee on the Blue icemen. This is Wood's fifth victory over Yale, and Putnam's fifth, too.

All of the Harvard players are strong for adopting pro rules for college hockey. When questioned after the Yale game, they seemed unanimously in favor of the new game.

PUTNAM LIKES PRO RULES

"Pro rules for amateur hockey are bound to come within the next two years at the most," Capt. Elliot Putnam stated, "and, personally, I think the sooner we have them the better off hockey will be."

"I think so, too," Johnny Garrison, Harvard's center, added. "The pro rules will certainly speed up the game tremendously. And another thing, it will stop a lot of this body checking business which slows up the game and the players as it is now."

Mobbie Giddens, Harvard's lone Canadian, was asked his opinion.

"Of course, I'm all in favor of the new game," he said, "but there's a lot to be settled before the new rules can be made adaptable for college and amateur teams.

"For instance, as a Canadian, I'd like to know what would happen if the colleges and amateur teams here in the States adopted pro rules, while in Canada they kept their old game. What would they do in that case when it came to Olympic matches?"

Giddens was asked if he expected to make a Canadian team in time for the next Olympics. He declined to state whether or not he would continue playing amateur hockey, but said definitely that he was not going into pro hockey when he graduates this June.

"Ever since my sophomore year here at Harvard I have been trying to make up my mind whether I should try my luck with the pros or not. I have received offers from two professional teams, but I am not thinking of accepting them."

MONTE, ALLEN IN TRAINING

Joe Monte and Harry Allen, rival Brockton heavyweight who clash in the 10-round main bout at the Boston Arena next Monday night, have started training for the battle and neither will let up until the day before they clamber through the ropes.

Monte is camped at Toland's Gym and has surrounded himself with a Gang of husky sparring partners who are making him step every minute, while Allen is working out at Joe Beston's Gym in Quincy.

The two met once before and it was one of the greatest heavyweight battles the Hub has witnessed. On that occasion, Monte slipped across a terrific punch to Allen's chin and Harry was counted out, misjudging the referee's count and taking 10 seconds on one knee.

He maintains that he could easily have continued the fight and he not only promises to win the decision over Monte but is emphatic in saying that he will knyo his hometown rival.

Eight Matches in Squash Racquets

Eight more first round matches were played in the Class B squash racquets championship tournament at the University Club.

The feature match of the first round to date was that played between R. Davis and E. W. Cobb

A. H. Richardson defeated H. J. Sargent in another close match where there was little to choose between the victor and the vanquished.

By BILL GRIMES

BATTLING for their tenth straight victory and their sixteenth game without a defeat, the Bruins, holders of the Stanley Cup, will meet Les Canadiens tonight at the Boston Garden, before a crowd of 15,000 persons.

Aside from continuing their winning streak, the game means little to the Bruins but it is of great importance to the Flying Frenchmen. With one more game to be played than the pacemakers of the International division, Les Canadiens are trailing the Montreal Maroons three points.

While Les Canadiens are trying to make headway against the Bruins at the Garden tonight, the Maroons will be matching ability with the Senators in Ottawa and the leaders' chances of success are not as promising as those of the Flying Frenchmen, who got a real break when Lionel Hitchman was declared hors de combat with a fractured jaw.

The loss of Capt. Hitchman is a serious one to the Bruins. Hitchman is a standout among the N. H. L. defense men and his absence will materially weaken the Boston defense, which needs its full strength in order to cope with Les Canadiens.

Hitchman was hit in the jaw with the puck, during the Ottawa game, by Eddie Shore.

It was during one of those wild scrimmages in Boston territory that Hitchman was injured. While attempting to clear the puck from a dangerous position, Eddie Shore took a backhanded lift at the rubber and, driving it with terrific force, hit Capt. Hitchman on the jawbone.

Although Hitchman suffered greatly during the remainder of the game, as usual he made no complaint, and played through to the finish.

HITCH OUT OF GAME

Hitchman was X-rayed yesterday and it was discovered that his jawbone was fractured and that he would be out of the game until the playoffs.

With Capt. Hitchman out of tonight's game, George Owen will draw the assignment to pair up with Eddie Shore on the defense. In the last Bruin-Canadien game, Eddie Shore was out of the lineup, but the Stanley Cup holders came through with a victory, Hitchman and Owen proving too strong an outer defense for the Frenchmen.

In attempting to fill Capt. Hitchman's shoes, George Owen has been tendered the greatest assignment he has received in professional hockey. The former Harvard star, however, has always gone well against Les Canadiens and although it is unfair to expect that he will be as effective as "Hitch," George can be relied upon to hold up his end.

Les Canadiens arrived from Pittsburgh last night, and are quartered at the Hotel Kenmore. Manager Cecil Hart reported that every player, with the exception of George Hainesworth, is in excellent condition.

HAINESWORTH O. K.

Hainesworth is recovering from his recent illness and although he was a trifle shaky during the first period of the Pirate game, settled down and turned in a fine performance.

Manager Art Ross will send Harry Oliver, Marty Barry and Perk Galbraith in as shock troops to take the edge off Aurele Joliat. Howie Morenz and Nick Wasnie, after which he will toss in Dutch Gainor, Cooney Welland and Dit Clapper.

To a great extent, the success of the Frenchmen depends on their wings and with the Bruins' Dynamite line in action, Manager Hart has instructed his defense to cover Clapper and Gainor closely and lessen as far as possible all chances of combination play.

Purdue Wins Second Basketball Title

Chicago, March 4 (INS)—Purdue university's brilliant basketball machine today ruled as undisputed champions of the Western Conference, thus bringing the second major sports title of the year to the Wabash school.

Leaping the last hurdle on their road to the championship, the Boilermakers last night defeated the University of Michigan five by a 44-to-28 score.

Harvard Baseball Squad Works Hard; Cut This Week

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

NUGENT WILL PLAY SHORT FOR TEAM

STIFF and sore after their first real workout of the season, 60 Harvard baseball candidates hobbled out for another session at Briggs baseball cage today.

Coach Fred Mitchell is wasting no time in whipping his 1930 nine into shape. Four infield combinations have already been picked, and the first cut of the season is due to fall the end of this week.

Capt. Frank Nugent, who will go down in Harvard baseball history as the first Crimson player-coach, is playing shortstop this season. For the past two years Nugent has held down the assignment at second base. In his freshman year, however, he was a shortstop.

NUGENT AT SHORT

Nugent's reason for wanting to play short this season was not stated by the Crimson leader. He will supplant Eddie McGrath in this spot, while the Brookline boy will move into the garden with Ben Tickner and Ben Bassel.

Mitchell's first infield selection has Donaldson at first, Johnny Carver at second, Nugent at short and Huxtel at third. Huxtel was captain of the seconds and played around the hot corner last season. He is getting his first chance with the veterans this season and is working hard to stay with them.

A second infield quartet has Davis at first, Emil Des Roches at second, Eddie McGrath at short and Paul Ketchum at third. McGrath is not expected to remain in the infield much longer, however, and in fact was filling the spot only temporarily.

STARS NOT OUT YET

Only two "holdouts" have appeared so far in the Harvard roster. They are Barry Wood and Sam Batchelder, who have not reported yet. Inasmuch as these two have an important engagement to fill with Yale next Saturday night in the Garden, Mitchell has excused them from diamond practice.

Mitchell expects to shift Wood soon, and the former Milton boy will be changed from shortstop to first base. Batchelder is already acknowledged as first choice at backstop for the Crimson this year. He will divide the work with Shelton, who caught Charlie Devens on the freshman team last year.

About 25 batterymen are now l'sted on the Crimson's roll call. Pitchers are abundant, but receivers continue to be scarce.

Charlie Devens is Mitchell's ace in the hole this season, while good material is also available in the veterans, MacHale and Page.

Ed Samborski, who was ineligible last season, is also making a strong bid for a mound position, as are Tobe and Ed White, a couple of sophomore southpaws.

Big Diamond Squad Out at B. U. Today

A record number of candidates for infield and outfield berths on Boston University's baseball nine are expected to answer Coach Joe Gilmore's first call for general practice at the St. Botolph st. gym this afternoon.

For the past 10 days the Terrier batterymen have been going through drills in order to get in shape as quickly as possible. The prospective pitchers and catchers are rounding into fine shape as a result of their recent workouts and will now share the gym with the other baseballers.

As was the case with the batterymen for the first few days the fielders will spend much of their time at first in going through regular game workouts to get into some kind of condition before throwing the ball around much.

BIG SQUAD OUT

Judging by the number of battery candidates that reported for the nine on the first day of practice, one of the largest first day squads to report for a Terrier ball team in some time should be on hand today. The battery squad numbers 30 men and the prospective fielders should come close to doubling that number.

With a veteran battery squad in Pickard and Bass, catchers; and Leslin, Weafer and Murphy, pitchers, Coach Gilmore can now turn his attention to the other positions on the team and begin to take stock.

Veterans of lasts year's nine who will report today for another diamond campaign are Bill Davidson, first base; Jake Arkin, second base; Frank Sheehan, third base; Andy Gumpwright and Bill Dugan, shortstop; Vic Stout, left field; Jack McCullough, center field; Norm George, right field.

M. I. T. and Brown have two representatives on the all-opponent ten team selected by H. Nelson Raymond, Jr., coach of the Northeastern varsity team, which closed its first season of competitive sport last week.

M. A. C. and Bowdoin both defeated by the Huskies, each have one player on the first team. M. I. T., Brown and Bowdoin each have six representatives on the second sextet.

Raymond's all-opponent selections follow: First team, Lingham (Brown) lw; Moulton (Brown) c; Cullinan (M. I. T.) rw; Thayer (Bowdoin) rd; Hazeltine (M. I. T.) rd; Myrick (M. A. C.) g. Rev. John Healey, O. P.

The Red Sox president, Bob Quinn, was snapped in the above photo as he went through a workout at Pensacola, Fla., with Father Healey, an old friend. The pair are watching the pre-season workouts of the Red Sox each day. And the urge to toss a ball around was too great to withstand.

Baseball in Brief

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 4 (AP)—There is more than a suspicion in the camp of the Chicago White Sox training camp that Bill Kamm, leading third baseman, in point of fielding, for the last two seasons, is a holdout.

Kamm is one of four athletes who have not yet appeared, and no word has been received from them concerning his intentions. Smead Jolley, Art Shires and Alex Metzler are the others yet to arrive for work.

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 4 (AP)—The boys in the Pittsburgh Pirates training camp here still are talking today about the one Al Bool socked over the fence. Ervin Brame hit one over the fence several days ago.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Now that his athletes are down to work, Dan Howley, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, is going to look again for more strength. Howley feels he must have another catcher and more pitchers. The Reds have had but one day of drill and that was too cold to permit any throwing.

NEW ORLEANS, March 3 (AP)—The spirit of optimism prevailing among the Cleveland Indians has spread to Billy Evans, general manager of the club. Mr. Evans saw the Indians for the first time this season yesterday and found much, especially in some of the rookie hurlers, to enthuse over.

TAMPA, FLA., March 4 (AP)—Elias Funk, outfielder, who came to the Detroit Tigers from Hollywood, was a center of attention today. Funk showed considerable speed in his workout and the only thing that is worrying Manager Bucky Harris is how the recruit will stand up against major league pitching.

BILOXI, MISS., March 4 (AP)—While Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Nationals, awaited word from Catcher Roy Spencer as to acceptance of terms, Manager Walter Johnson opened this week's training by giving most of his attention to two young catchers Gordon Phelps and Nilson Jester.

Called for batting practice yesterday, both showed power and signs of possessing battles eyes.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 4 (AP)—Inclement weather has slowed down training activities of the New York Giants ever since Manager McGraw hit camp, but he has seen enough to venture the prediction that Roy Parmalee, Toledo recruit, is quite some pitcher.

Parmalee and Karl Hubbell pitched for the regulars against the rookies yesterday and won a six-inning tilt, 7—1.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Manager Burt Shotton of the Philadelphia Nationals was in a happy mood at the Phillies' training camp today.

"See that smile?" he said. "Well, I've just good word that Finky Whitney has signed his contract."

Lefty O'Doul and Chuck Klein, slugging outfielders, are the only other regulars who have not signed their contracts.

WEST PALM BEACH, FLA., March 4 (AP)—Fresh uniforms were ready today for the second contingent of the St. Louis Browns as the outfielders and infielders were due to join their battery mates in spring training. Heinie Manush is still unsigned.

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Whether Al Simmons is a holdout or merely prolonging his stay at Hot Springs continued to be a topic of discussion among the Philadelphia Athletics today. Manager Mack declines to confirm a rumor that his star outfielder has not signed a contract.

All the other regulars are on the ground, with the exception of Max Bishop, who is recovering from ivy-poisoning.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn Robins, has separated the sheep from the goats for practice purposes and the high priced Pacific Coast League recruits Mickey Finn and Gordon Slade, find themselves in the latter category. There is no law, however, to prevent either or both from becoming regulars as time goes on.

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA., March 4 (AP)—If Babe Ruth's first baseball workout of the year was something of a "flop," the weather man can be held responsible.

Although still unsigned, Ruth reported for practice at the New York Yankees' camp yesterday, and that's usually a sign for big crowds.

22 Harvard Crews Work Out on Charles

High winds that ruffled up the surface of the Charles failed to keep 16 varsity and six Harvard freshmen crews from taking to the water for the sixth successive day of practice.

Interfrat Mat Show Planned at Tufts

Plans are under way at Tufts to have an interfraternity wrestling tournament after the regular wrestling season closes on March 15.

GRIFFITH SET FOR GO WITH FRIEDMAN

Tuffy Griffiths, Sioux City heavyweight, makes his debut in a New England ring against Al Friedman of Roslindale at the Garden next Friday evening.

At Jim Toland's gym Tuffy made a hit in a fast workout.

The young giant went about his work like a real threat for the title.

Griffiths did not work his head off Monday. He went through shadow boxing, and then boxed three rounds against Jack Moulton of Roxbury and his brother.

Tuffy punched the heavy bag for a few more rounds until Manager Jack O'Keefe decided to call it a day.

Tuffy has a decision over Al Friedman, obtained in Providence. Griggiths is confident that he will win.

BRAVES TO GET NEW CATCHER and acquired a poise that was lacking in the old days.

"I was a cocky kid when I first came up," Red admitted, "but I'm over that now. I always did think I was a ball player, but I have learned that old timers can tell me things. This is my last shot, and I'm out to make the grade this year."

Looks like Red might be the third sacker when the season starts.

There still are a few holdouts on the club, but the only serious one is Jimmy Welsh, who hasn't been heard from. All the others are present and working, waiting until Owner Judge Fuchs arrives tomorrow from Miami. And Jimmy, with his victrola, is due to drop into camp any minute.

Manager McKechnie was all burned up when a real wintry first wind swept into town yesterday and abolished all practice. He has been driving the boys hard and in one week has whipped the bunch into good shape. He figures to drive the game until the games start Saturday, and then ease off. So each of these days means a lot to him.

He will take his gang out to run around the park today, no matter what the frigidity, and if there's a chance the boys will get the toughest workout of the spring.

George Sisler is in fine physical trim, and you may take it from us that Johnny Nuen will have a tough time grabbing that first base job. George, you may remember led the team in hitting a year ago, and drove in more runs than any Brave.

Earl Clark, who has had more than his share of accidents, has been sold the idea that he has a few years of good luck coming. So he looks especially good just now.

Sec. E. Cunningham, very busy running the barracks, reports that early requests for tickets indicate a big gate year. The village is crowded to the boundaries.

Dunlap is recovering so quickly from his operation that the doctors agree he may start training in six weeks or so.

Miller Proves Real Sprint Sensation

New York, March 4 (AP)—Leigh Miller, of the Hamilton Ontario Athletic club, has just about demonstrated his right to top place among indoor sprinters this year.

Miller trimmed Jack Elder of Notre Dame here some weeks ago and defeated George Simpson of Ohio State in the Canadian championship ten days ago. Last night, in the Manhattan College games, he whipped another United States ace, Chet Bowman, Newark A. C. veteran in the Marshall Sprint Series at 50, 60 and 70 yards. The Canadian won all three sprints with Bowman second each time.

The famous Jasper three-quarter mile invitation event went to Dr. Paul Martin of Switzerland after a great last-lap duel with Ray Conger of the Illinois A. C. Joe Hickey of New York University was third.

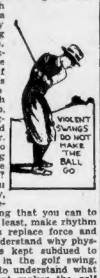
Max Wakely of the Central Y. M. C. A. gave the experts a surprise by winning the 500-yard run in 59 seconds, beating out Alfred Noyes of Boston. Fred Veit of the New York A. C., and Johnny Gibson of Bloomfield, N. J., in that order.

Stanislaw Petlewics, the Polish distance ace, turned in his fastest two-mile time in winning a handicap race from a field of about 20 in 9:25 3-5. He gave away 60 yards to Frank Bayley of the New York A. C., who finished second. Harold Frazee of Manhattan College was third.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
"Golf's Greatest Teacher"

It has been urged and argued season by season and century by century that you as a golfer cannot accomplish anything in a golfing way by emphasizing your strength, or force of exertion, while swinging a golf club. Still, it is instinctive to try to hit with a golf club, which seemingly is to be used in that manner. Why, then, do you avoid using force as force or strength? Perhaps if you understand why, you can so revamp your swing that you can to some extent, at least, make rhythm and smoothness replace force and strength. To understand why physical strength is kept subdued to a large extent in the golf swing, you have only to understand what the force is that makes the golf ball go. It is compression of the ball, and not violence or strength of club action, that moves the ball. The smoothly-swung, rhythmic stroking of the ball produces the maximum ball compression, as I shall presently show you.



Keeping your hands back of the iron clubhead when swinging through is one of the fundamentals of good iron shots. Chester Horton, foremost golf instructor of the country, tells you how you can attain this, in a specially prepared monograph on long iron shots. Send your request for it to the sports editor, of this newspaper, addressed to Mr. Horton. Enclose a stamped envelope addressed to yourself, and this instruction will be sent to you free.

Women's Golf Title Play Starts Today

St. Augustine, Fla., March 4—Massachusetts players did not fare well in the mixed foursome best ball handicap competition on St. Augustine links, which served as a prelude to the Florida east coast title tournament for women commencing today. M. L. Pearson of Williamstown was paired with Mrs. R. Fuller of Chicago and turned in a gross of 95. Their handicap of nine strokes gave them a net of 86.

TWO BIG GAPS IN B. C. NINE THIS YEAR

LARGE open spaces will be noticed at first and third bases by Coach Hugh Duffy when he meets his infield candidates at the Commonwealth Armory, the Eagles' spring training camp, tomorrow afternoon.

They are the gaps left, respectively, by Al Weston, now with Providence, and Hank O'Day, who has recently signed to take care of the hot corner for Jersey City.

Within a few weeks, however, these openings will be little more than noticeable, for Coach Hugh Duffy is fortunate enough to have the material to plug them up in satisfactory manner.

Jonnny Temple is likely to shift to the infield from the outer garden without weakening the outfield the slightest bit. And Harry Downes, who caught for the freshman a season past, is due to take over the initial hassock.

Temple was going fine last season in the outfield and was up with the leading college batters when he crushed a bone in his foot sliding into a base somewhere or other. This put him out for the rest of the season.

At Cambridge Latin school Johnny was an all-scholastic third sacker and one of the hardest hitters in schoolboy ranks. He knows the requirements of the hot corner and would rather play there than in the pasture.

Temple can field as well as O'Day, has a good arm and possibly can outclout Hank by a few points or so. So it seems that Temple, if he comes through as expected, will make B. C. fans forget the great O'Day.

Downes, in taking over first base, has a bigger assignment than Temple. His job is to fill the boots of Al Weston, and Weston was without doubt the best all-around ball player that Boston College has had in recent years. Weston was a top notch fielder, hitter and baseball strategist.

24 Bouts Tonight in Amateur Title Fights Finale

WINNERS TO BATTLE IN NATIONALS

By GEORGE W. GRIMM

THE New England A. A. A. U. will offer 24 bouts of three rounds each in the final night of boxing in the championship classes which are scheduled to start promptly at 7:30 o'clock this evening, at the Boston Arena.

Four winners of tonight's bouts will go to Cincinnati to box in the junior national titles next Tuesday night and on Thursday and Friday night the other quartet will clash in the junior title events at Grand Rapids, Mich.

The fans who journeyed to the Arena late yesterday afternoon were treated to 10 bouts. Tony Catalano of Providence, in the 126-pound class, and Joe Larsen, of Quincy, in the 160 division and Charlie Kelly of Newton, in the 147-pound class romped through their divisions in rare form.

George Ostrow of Revere, in the 112-pound class, is a likely winner.

A gathering of close to 5000 fans were on hand for the opening night's entertainment. This gathering will be increased by another 2000 tonight, who should enjoy a real treat in the bouts scheduled.

CARTER GOOD

Ennis Carter of Worcester and Tony Ruggerio of Providence are two boys who will show their wares in the 135-pound class. Another boy to be considered in this class will be John Conley of South Boston.

This trio are about the best in the division, and no matter how they clash in tonight's tourney there should be a battle.

One of the best matches of the night in the 160 pound class found Walter Rochesville of Medford and Joe Smith of Toland's Gymnasium battling.

Rochesville was knocked down early times in the opening round, but Medford boy came back in the second round to knock Smith out.

DRISANO FAST

Willie Indrisano of East Boston jumped to fame his way to the semifinals, defeating Sammy Lusardo of Northbridge in the heavyweight division. The East Boston boy packed too many punches for the boy from Northbridge.

The judges, Patrick Gargan of St. Joseph a T. A. S. and Joe Cuddy of the same organization, who are regular judges about Greater Boston, did their job very well. Johnny Martin referred well in the first bout of the almost three hour battle.

The mike went out of order a couple of times and Johnny Hallahan went into the ring to do announcing.

Frank Murray of Providence beated Irwin Lewis of Quincy in the second last bout of the evening in the 118 pound class. This bout was close.

$16,541 McLarnin's Share of Spoils

Chicago, March 4 (AP)—Jimmy McLarnin, the Dublin dynamiter, received $16,541.89 for beating lightweight champion Sammy Mandell, in the "rubber" 10-round bout in the Chicago Stadium Saturday night. Mandell was rewarded with the same amount for doing the catching.

May Play Cup Final at Polo Grounds

Fall River, March 4—Nothing definite could be learned regarding the site for the Eastern final of the national cup competition.

The game, with Fall River and Bethlehem as the opponents, will be played on Sunday, March 16, with the odds favoring the Polo Grounds in New York as the ultimate choice of the cup committee. There is a possibility, however, that the game will be played in New England.

Sonnenberg Wins in Straight Falls

Dallas, Tex., March 4 (AP)—Gus Sonnenberg, recognized in several states as world's heavyweight wrestling champion, won two straight falls from Freddy Myers of Chicago here tonight. He took the first in 21 minutes with a flying tackle and the second in 11 minutes with a body slam.

Tiger Nine to Play N. Y. City College

New York—Princeton University has been added to the City College baseball schedule for the coming spring season.

GIRLS' FIVE HAS FINE RECORD

Teams representing the Y. W. H. A. have made rapid progress in sporting events, but none have surpassed the fine showing made to date by the girls' basketball team representing the association.

The team was organized in early fall, and though finding it hard to get sufficient competition has defeated all combinations to date.

The team, captained by Miss Ethel Talberth, is one of the most promising in honors in all line of sporting activity. The members of the quintet are Miss Anna Silverstein, Ethel Talberth, Ethel Silverstein, Mildred Levine and Eva Horne.

Captain Talberth played on the Waterville high team of Maine which held the State title in 1926 and 1927, and is the outstanding player of the Roxbury aggregation.

To date the team has scored victories over the Somerset A. C., Elm Street Church (twice), Ontario Club of Malden, and have games pending with girl teams from Charles town, Chelsea and Everett.

Miss Mina Silverstein is coach and would be glad to arrange games with any team desiring to play either at home or at the Roxbury "Y."

TIGERS AT FULL STRENGTH

The Boston Tigers will be at full strength for their game with the league-leading Reds at Providence tomorrow night, with Yank Boyd, first-string right wing, back on duty.

Boyd, who had been suspended by Judge James E. Dooley, president of the Canadian-American Hockey League for a fracas with Murphy of the Indians at Springfield Saturday night, was reinstated after the Providence jurist received the report of Referees Shaver and McKenzie.

In their report the Can.-Am guessers said that Boyd was the victim of circumstances and that Murphy had been the aggressor in the hostilities.

The match penalty, which had been imposed and was the cause of the suspension, had been handed out to prevent further trouble between Boyd and the members of the Springfield team and not as punishment for the Tiger winger.

Incidentally, both Boyd and Referee Shaver were fined $15 in the Springfield courts for breach of peace. Both pleaded nolo.

Carnera Stops Clark After Hard Battle

PHILADELPHIA, March 4 (AP)—Primo Carnera, the man mountain from Italy, had another knockout victim to his growing list today and was some $10,000 richer by reason of his victory over Roy (Ace) Clark, towering Philadelphia Negro.

Clark, an inch and a half taller than the rambling Alp, though 37 pounds lighter, was rocked to sleep in the sixth round last night when Primo's ponderous right crashed against his jaw. Twice in the fourth Carnera had found the range and Clark went down for counts of eight and nine.

Carnera found Clark tougher than any of his seven preceding opponents in the United States all of whom he knocked out inside of two rounds.

Primo took a considerable pasting himself from the hard hitting negro and in the fifth and early part of the sixth, when the battle seemed to be going against him, kept boring in with both fists flying.

Two vicious rights closed Primo's left eye completely, but he mech grinned and kept on trying. Between the fifth and sixth rounds the club physician examined the damaged optic and said he would let the fight go one more round despite Carnera's protest that he was all right.

Half blinded he shook off Clark's heavy blows when the sixth opened, and as the fans shouted to stop the fight he waded in and smothered Clark with piledriving blows.

Ace wilted under the attack and a savage hook knocked him off his feet. Clark was through and the vast Venetian, battle scarred for the first time since his American invasion, had shown that he could "take it" if necessary.

N. E. LEAGUE MEETING ON TONIGHT

DURING the annual meeting of the New England League, which will be held tonight at the Hotel Victoria, President Claude Davidson is confident that he will put through a motion which will annex St. John, N. B., to his circuit.

The promoters of organized baseball in Saint John will be represented by Joe Page, the father of the great American game in Canada.

Page and Davidson talked over Saint John's joining the New England League during the world series last fall.

In order that the New Brunswick city be represented in the Davidson organization this season, Joe Page cancelled a trip to Florida, while en route, returned to Montreal and thence to Saint John. Within 24 hours he had secured the necessary backing and received sanction to represent the Saint John interests in tonight's meeting.

Saint John has no equal for a city its size as a baseball centre. From 1901 until the war baseball flourished in Saint John and in spite of the fact that it supported two clubs and carried about one-half of the operating expenses of the other clubs in the old Maine-New Brunswick League, baseball netted the promoters a fine annual revenue until the Great War put a stop to the game.

If the New England League board of directors agree to the terms which Joe Page will submit tonight, Pres. Davidson and Page will go to Saint John Friday night and close the deal.

CHARGE MELLON FIGHTS HOOVER OIL PLAN

Washington, March 4—Charges that the Mellon interests opposed a tariff on Oil and that they have not co-operated with President Hoover's oil conservation program were made before the Senate lobby committe today by Wirt Franklin, head of the Independents, who financed an extensive lobby here for a duty on oil imports.

"The Mellon interests have opposed the duty on oil and have not co-operated in any way in the President's oil conservation program," Franklin testified.

"How do you know that?" Senator Walsh (D.), Montana, asked.

"Henry McGraw, vice-president and general manager of the Gypsey Oil Co. for Oklahoma and Texas, told me," Franklin replied. "He is the active head of the Gypsey Company which is owned by the Gulf Oil Co., a Mellon company. His headquarters are at Tulsa."

Senators were described as much "tougher than a 24-inch bit," the largest drill used in oil fields.

A telegram to that effect, sent by Earl Calloway, a member of the Independent Oil Producers' Association, was read to the committee. It was addressed to "Tex" McIlroy of Amarillo, Tex.

"A 24-inch bit is a tough proposition," it said, "but compared with a United States senator it is a feather bed."

Franklin said it was just "a telegram from one Irishman to another," adding that Calloway was fond of "cracking jokes."

He said if the senators understood what "a 24-inch bit was" they would consider Calloway's reference was a compliment.

Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, later informed the lobby committee he would introduce another amendment to the tariff bill providing for a duty on oil.

LOVEJOY by BEATRICE BURTON

GREATER BOSTON NEWS

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

A HOME PAPER FOR EVERY NEEDLE WHO THINK

BOSTON, TUESDAY, MARCH 4, 1930

2D SECTION

A Tense Serial of Love, Romance of Today

CHAPTER 45

THE next month always seemed like the calm before a storm when Lovejoy looked back upon it.

In the house everything went on much as it always had.

Norrie got Tom's breakfast for him at eight o'clock. At nine Lovejoy would come downstairs to find the house in order, the dishes washed and the coffee ready for her.

"What will we have for dinner tonight?" she would ask Norrie, going out into the yard where Norrie, would be playing with the baby or weeding the garden while the baby tumbled about on the grass.

The meals were expensive. Chicken and green vegetables and salad and iced tea one or two nights a week. Tom liked chicken and steak, scorning stews and pot roasts.

"The grocery bill is terrible," he complained to Lovejoy on the first of July. "I thought you were going to try to cut down on some of these things."

Lovejoy shrugged her pretty shoulders. "It's not my fault that you like porterhouse steak and spring chicken," she said. "And, speaking of economy, why don't you give up buying liquor at a hundred dollars a case?"

Tom flushed. He had bought a new case of whiskey two days before.

"The Goodsells and the Aldersons always have had something to drink when they came here," he said, "and the other night when they dropped in I had to telephone Sam and get some stuff. You know that."

Sam was the bootlegger who had been selling Tom his liquor for the past six months.

"We've just got to cut down somewhere!" Tom insisted. "We're spending too much. I can't pay anything on our bills this month."

A hard look came into Lovejoy's face, destroying its soft beauty.

"I don't know why I should turn myself wrong side out to help you, Tom Nicholson," she said in an ugly voice. "You don't care for me and you show me that you don't a dozen times a day—You haven't kissed me in weeks and weeks."

Tom got up from his armchair, putting the bills into his vest pocket.

"Well," he said quietly, "months ago when I thought you and I were as happy and as well-mated as any two people could be, you were running out nights to let Stephen Ogleby make love to you. . . . son may be doing it now, for all I know—"

"I'm not!" Lovejoy cut in angrily. "He's not even in town right now!"

Tom walked away from her. "Well, cheer up. He'll be back soon," he said sarcastically and went upstairs.

There was a light under his door when Lovejoy followed him a few minutes afterward.

She went into her own room and got ready for bed. But she could not sleep. She sat at her window, looking out into the darkness and thinking of nights when Tom had gone to sleep with Tom's arm under her shoulders and her face almost touching his.

This isn't life! she said to herself with a mixture of fury and despair. Tom in one room, and I in another!—It isn't marriage' It isn't anything'

The next day she went to Aunt Em with the whole story.

"What would you do about it?" she asked her. "I want your advice, Aunt Em!"

Aunt Em was ready with it instantly. . . . That was one comforting thing about her—she loved to give advice and sometimes it was really very helpful.

"I'd try to go on as if nothing was the matter," she said. "If you didn't have the baby you'd be a free agent. But you have the baby, and you've got to stick to your home and your husband for that reason."

Old-fashioned stuff' Old moth-eaten ideas of the last century thought Lovejoy.

"But why do you suppose Tom refuses to kiss me or come anywhere near me?" she asked aloud. "He hasn't as much as touched my hand for a month!"

Aunt Em shrugged her round, fat shoulders. "I don't understand that and I admit it," she said. "But this I do know—It's a man's nature to make love. And if Tom Nicholson ain't makin' love to you he must be makin' it to somebody else. There ain't been a night of your Uncle James' life when he hasn't kissed me good night."

She pursed up her lips and went on:

"But then I never did what you've done, Lovejoy. I never put my husband into a room by himself and fixed up a room of my own—all silk and powder puffs and lookin' glasses. And I never went footin' around with other men, either!"

"Every woman I know has her own room," said Lovejoy, "and it's so comfortable to have the clothes-closet all to yourself and a dressing table all to yourself."

Aunt Em sniffed. "Well, you haven't kept the husband to yourself, though, it've you?" she asked tartly.

And that was all the help that Lovejoy got from her.

On the night of the eighteenth of July things came to a crisis.

It was a Thursday night—and it was Aline's night to entertain the Thursday Night Dinner Club.

There were eight members in the club—all of them married couples. The Aldersons, the Goodsells, the Nicholsons and another couple named Lambert.

"Elsie Lambert's husband is out

OTHER CLUBS GO DRY AFTER ELKS' BUILDING RAID

CLUBROOMS 'DRY' AFTER ELK RAID

Three Men Arrested by U. S. Agents Are Released by Court in $1000 Each

As three men arrested at the Boston Elks Club were released under $1000 bail each today on the charge of possessing liquor, other clubs in the eastern Massachusetts enforcement area took warning that the prohibition forces were out to dry up the wet spots.

The Elks Club, in the Elks Hotel Building, was the third large club raided within a short period.

Evidence was gained by sending out spies in advance to gain admittance and take note of conditions, and this fact spread alarm among other clubs today and caused a tightening of guest regulations everywhere.

Those arraigned today before U. S. Commissioner Edwin C Jenney were Jack Gordon, 42, married, of Green st.; Edward C Beasley, 60, married, of Grovenor rd., Jamaica Plain, and John A DeCourcy, 35, single, of Fenwood rd., Roxbury

They pleaded no guilty and were released under bail for hearing March 11. Patrick J. Sullivan of Village st. went surety for them.

Thomas F. Dignan of Webster st., East Boston, will be arraigned on the same charge on March 11, his attorney, Matthew L. McGrath, promising to have him before the commissioner then.

The possession charge cites 87 bottles of Canadian ale, four bottles of porter, 14½ bottles of High and Dry Gin, 28 pints of gin, 26¼ pints of rye whiskey and two quarts of Bourbon whiskey.

According to the federal authorities, those arrested constituted the personnel of a barroom on floor 5½ of the Elks Club.

Arrival of the federal agents at the barroom, caused a stir and drew scores to the lobby. A dry agent was waiting inside the room, among other "customers," for the arrival of his comrades, who gained admission readily with an unrevealed password

Greater Boston yacht clubs are said to have received secret warning that the drive on clubs will be a severe one and that all clubs are under scrutiny

'GIRL UNAFRAID' DARING THEME

"I'm hungry for you sweetheart. Couldn't stay away another day."

That was what Ken had said last night.

But tonight he was with Cecile Cecile, the girl he was engaged to marry but did not love!

Jealousy scorched Ardeth as she thought of Ken's vivid face bent close to Cecile's provocative lips. . . .

"Girl Unafraid" is the gripping story of a great game of love two young moderns played with the dice loaded against them.

The author of "Marianne," Gladys Johnson, has created another tale of conflicting human emotions that will add new glory to her famous name.

In "Girl Unafraid," Miss Johnson has conceived an entirely new triangle, daring in its disregard of convention, great in the fineness of its love

Don't miss this powerful study of modern men and women. Watch for "Girl Unafraid" in the Boston American beginning next Friday.

REP. BILODEAU URGES APPROVAL OF CURLEY GASOLINE TAX BILL

WOULD FAVOR RATE CUT TO 10 PER CENT

Says Every City and Town in the Metropolitan District Needs New Roads

Thomas H. Bilodeau, legislative agent for Boston today urged the acceptance of Mayor Curley's bill for the appropriation of a part of the funds received from the gasoline tax to the municipalities for highway construction.

Speaking before the legislative committee on ways and means Bilodeau explained that while the mayor's bill calls for 50 per cent of the tax he would be satisfied if the legislature amended the bill to 10 per cent.

He argued that every city and town in the metropolitan area needs money to construct roads in districts recently developed. In Boston alone, he said, there are 100 unaccepted streets in outlying sections, which are nothing but mud holes.

NEED NEW ROADS

Nearly 40 per cent of the motorists in the Metropolitan district, he estimated, rarely drive outside the district. Yet, he pointed out, they have to drive over bumpy roads while the money they pay to the State in gasoline taxes is used to build roads in the Berkshires and in other distant counties.

Bilodeau also favored another of the mayor's bills to give Boston the money now secured by the State from fines inflicted for motor vehicle violations.

City Solicitor T. W. Prince of Brockton and former Representative Joseph Martin of Marblehead favored the gasoline tax split-up idea.

Martin also said the fee for renewals of automobile licenses should be restored from $2 to $3. When the gas tax bill was first enacted, he said, the public works department estimated that it required an annual revenue of $13,000,000 for State highway construction. Since then, he said, the revenue has increased to $16,000,000 and is further expanding at the rate of $1,000,000 a year. The burden on the autoist, he felt, could well afford to be lightened.

GOODWIN OBJECTS

Frank A. Goodwin, chairman of the Boston Finance Commission, objected to the way the highway fund is being expended. Cities, he said, pay an overwhelming portion of the State automobile taxes and revenue but a negligible percentage of the revenue for roads in their own localities.

The cities, he argued, are paying a large part of the cost of purely town roads, yet the town insists that the motorists in the city pay higher insurance rates than they do.

State Highway Commissioner Frank E. Lyman, replying to Goodwin, said that Boston was not inclined to have State roads constructed within its limits because of the provision in the highway fund law requiring towns to meet one-quarter of the cost.

They're Proud of His Service in War

Mrs. Shea Thurman Mrs. Esther Rutstein Mrs. Moses Levenson

Mrs. Esther Rutstein of 36 McLellan st., Dorchester, one of the nation's Gold Star mothers, is proud her boy gave his life for his country. She is shown with her two daughters, Mrs. Shea Thurman and Mrs. Moses Levenson, admiring a framed photo of Benjamin Rutstein, who died "Somewhere in France." (Staff photo.)

Dorchester Hero Died on His Birthday

Mothers were the "second line of defense" in the World War, as in all wars. Now the government is going to send to France, that they may view the last resting place of their hero sons, the Gold Star mothers of America, those mothers whose sons made the supreme sacrifice. Today the Boston Evening American presents the seventh in a series of biographical sketches of heroes who gave their lives in the war—sketches made by the Gold Star mothers or widows themselves.

A young soldier is dying "Somewhere in France."

The boy guesses at the bleeding stubs of his legs, and knows he has only a few minutes to live.

"Pencil and paper," he calls weakly.

This is what he wrote:

"My darling mother, don't worry. I died a hero."

He started to sign it and got as far as "Your son, Benj—"

Ten minutes later he was dead. These last written words of Benjamin Rutstein, "laughing bluest soldier, are the choicest possession of his Gold Star mother, Mrs. Esther Rutstein of 36 McLellan st., Dorchester.

CHERISH MESSAGE

The last message of the 20-year-old veteran is hanging in a little frame on the parlor wall, not far from another letter. This one is from the President of the United States, personally signed, and telling the mother of the boy a gallant record.

A third letter is carefully preserved by the family. This one is from the colonel of the 167th Infantry of the Rainbow Division, in which outfit Benny served.

"An excellent and gallant soldier," wrote the officer, "and he had the admiration and the respect of all the members of his company. His loss was keenly felt by them."

The boy was killed on his birthday.

The regiment, according to military sources, was "practically wiped out." Benny was one of the first to fall. His chum, an heir to one of the greatest fortunes in the South, was killed in the same group.

SQUARE NAMED FOR THEM

The young man was in business in Alabama when the war started, and he immediately enlisted with a Southern outfit. Benny became an expert marksman, and an all-round soldier.

Benny was of a sunny disposition, always thinking of helping someone else. His last thoughts were of his mother, and in his last message he tried to console her with the thought that his life had been given to his country.

This country, incidentally, is an adopted one, for Benny's parents were born in Russia, but their children are American born.

At Spring and Chambers sts., in Boston, there is a square named Benjamin Rutstein. It was in this very neighborhood that he was born and where his father worked.

Tomorrow the Boston Evening American will tell of John C. Kelley, an only son of Mrs. Mary F. Kelley of 1858 Columbus ave., Roxbury. The boy was killed on a dangerous volunteer mission in No Man's Land.

Enjoins Payment in Chelsea Garbage War

Chelsea's garbage war was carried into the Supreme Court of Massachusetts today.

Judge Crosby temporarily enjoined George F. Henderson city treasurer, from paying any money on a garbage contract which 10 citizens have alleged was made under conditions said by them to indicate graft.

The injunction holds force in all further action has been taken on the petition of Thomas J. Carle and nine others against payment of funds to Cornelius E. Tarpey.

Judge Crosby ordered the case set for next Tuesday. He added that if facts were to be heard the case would have to go to a master.

2 STATE PRISON FIRE PLOTTERS IN 'SOLITARY'

Face Long Punishment Sentence; Third Man Under Suspicion in Case

Accused of attempting to set a fire at State Prison, Thomas P. ("Peanuts") Galligan of Cambridge, and William P. McManus of Boston, will be kept in solitary confinement for some time and will thereafter be separated while at work during the long remainder of their terms, Warden Hogsett announced today.

The warden said that a third inmate was under suspicion, but nothing had been proved against him. He said he doubted that there was a general plan for a jail break.

McManus and Galligan were close to a closet in hosiery shop No. 1 when a candle was discovered in the closet blazing in a cardboard box, to which it was stuck upright by a piece of gum, Warden Hogsett said.

There were 45 men in the shop. In half a hour more than 800 prisoners would have been in the yard and there would have been considerable excitement with the arrival of firemen.

Gallivan is serving eight to ten years for burglary and McManus 21 to 24 years for a series of breaks and holdups at New Bedford.

INSECT POWDER KILLS SICK MAN

Administering a large dose of insect powder which she thought was cream of tartar to her husband who was confined to his bed with a severe attack of grippe, resulted in the death, today, at St Elizabeth's Hospital, Brighton, of Justin Szuranowicz, 58, of 9 Lawrence pl., Brighton.

Barbarowicz, a well known resident of Brighton, had been ill for several days. Dr. Charles P. Frawley, had instructed Mrs. Barbarowicz to give her husband cream of tartar. She mixed up a dose and the sick man swallowed the contents.

Hysterical and frightened, Mrs. Barbarowicz sent Ronald Waschela, of Seger court, Brighton, to phone for aid and Dr. John R. Thompson of Glenville ave., responded. Dr. Thompson ordered the man removed to the hospital. Captain Samuel Dunlap, of the Brighton police station has ordered an investigation.

JURY PROBING ALIEN 'RING'

Two witnesses were before the Federal Grand Jury today at the opening of the formal investigation of operations of an alleged "naturalization ring" in Boston.

This federal probe, expected to take several days, is checking up on reports that certain foreign-born citizens have exacted fees for allegedly improper services in helping Italians and Polish people in passing examinations.

The first to appear was James V. Donnaruma, editor and publisher of an Italian weekly newspaper. The publisher, who operates a plant on Hanover st., was in the jury room for half an hour.

Next to appear was Herbert B. Harris, an attorney.

The alleged heads of the so-called "ring" are said to have charged fees for coaching foreigners on questions likely to be asked during examinations for citizenship.

The ringleaders are also said to have posed as intimate friends of the examiners, with whom they claimed to have "great influence."

NEW FORE RIVER BRIDGE URGED

Speakers urging the construction of a new bridge over Fore River, near the Fore River shipyards in Quincy, today condemned the present structure as a menace to public safety, before the legislative committee on highways and motor vehicles.

Rep. William R. Thomas of Quincy said the bridge was built in 1901, before automobile traffic was ever considered. On this heavily traveled artery to the South Shore he said, there is room on the bridge for but two lines of vehicles. The draw of the bridge, he added, is not large enough to permit of the easy passage of ships of large tonnage.

City officials of Quincy and representatives of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation were recorded in favor of a new bridge.

FIRE MARSHAL IS SCORED ON ARSON CASES

Charge Only Nine Complaints Out of 104 Reported to Office Were Prosecuted

Charging lack of co-operation and initiative in the prosecution of arson cases, speakers today bitterly scored the State Department of Public Safety and the State fire marshal's office at a hearing before the legislative committee on judiciary.

Roswell S. Codman, Jr., member of the special commission which recently investigated the fire laws, a body created by the Legislature, claimed that 104 suspicious fires were called to the attention of the State fire marshal in 1928 and that only nine cases were prosecuted.

There is an unwarranted lack of co-operation between the fire marshal's office and the Boston fire officials," said Codman. "In fact, the Boston authorities have told me that when they telephoned to the marshal's office about the disposition of these cases they were told it was none of their business."

Codman said that he believed that the local officials are in a much better position to prosecute these cases than the marshal's officers are.

Claude Allen, for the Boston Chamber of Commerce, said that it is apparent that something is wrong with the arson laws when out of 104 suspicious cases reported only nine were prosecuted and but four convicted.

He supported one recommendation cutting down the life sentence to 20 years where the crime is committed in connection with building other than dwellings. He believed the change would bring about more convictions.

Timothy C. Murphy, chief fire inspector in the department of public safety, placed Fire Marshal John Dein on record as opposed to any changes in the arson laws. He said the present laws are perfectly adequate.

vomit I was troubled with gas. My kidneys were too active, my bowels were not active enough, and I suffered from severe backaches. My nerves were simply a wreck. At times my children at play would almost drive me frantic, and sometimes during the night I would get up suddenly and would be so nervous that I didn't know what to do with myself. It seemed that I wanted to rest all the time, and yet at night I could not sleep.

"My husband brought home some Bon-Tone and prevailed on me to take it. I did so, and, believe me, it did the trick! I have now taken six bottles of Bon-Tone and can truthfully say that I feel like a new woman. The improvement in my nerves is wonderful; my sleep is undisturbed, and my children are a joy to me. My bowels and kidneys are functioning properly; all my pains and aches are gone, and I have gained weight. All credit must be given to Bon-Tone—it sure is a wonderful tonic!"

Go to Epstein Drug Co., Inc., Scollay Square, Boston, and meet our representative. He will explain more about Bon-Tone to you.

For your convenience Bon-Tone is for sale in South Boston at John S. Austin's Drug Store, Perkins Square, and in Cambridge at the Cole Drug Co., 636 Mass. Avenue, Central Square.

Kiwanis Warned of Counterfeits

The new money may save the federal government considerable, but it will cost merchants a lot of money due in counterfeits.

That opinion was expressed today at the Kiwanis luncheon at the City Club, by W. J. Purcell of the National Surety Co., who told of schemes in defraud the merchants. "Few people are familiar with the new money," he said. "In Canada recently, two experts who had been employed by a large lithographer, were apprehended. The reports are that they had more than $1,000,000 in counterfeit U. S. bills."

Pastor Praises Prohibition Fight

The struggle over prohibition, like other questions that arouse the fighting spirit of the citizens, is a good thing, the Rev. C. E. Park, D. D., said today in a noon address at King's Chapel. "We are all engaged in some sort of acrimonious and I believe it is good for us because it brings out the integrity of life," he said.

"There is an increase of fighting spirit these days and it is a blessing in disguise. It keeps the world moving."

Each marker will cost $300.

THE merriest film farce we have seen in many a month is "Not So Dumb," now at Loew's State. It is a riot of fun; laughs are thicker than the quills on a porcupine. The acting is immense, the direction without flaw, the story classily comic, the dialogue away beyond the usual on screen. "Not So Dumb" is truly very clever and very intriguing; it satisfies. And why not? There is the captivating Marion Davies for central figure; there is King Vidor for director, and there is a superlative cast of able folk.

THIS scream of a photoplay is based upon that uproariously funny stage success, "Dulcy." Playgoers will recall its mirth, with Lynn Fontanne in the title role. Naturally enough, to bring this piece to the movies, the first consideration was to find someone who could put across the amazing character of Dulcy. Miss Davies is rightly known as the first of film comediennes; and here again she gives ample evidence of her merit of the honor. By surrounding the star with a rare support, and by placing the direction in the hands of one of the best of them all, Mr. Vidor, the producers have given us entertainment of the richest value. It has been some time since we were so wholeheartedly amused. There isn't a dull moment in "Not So Dumb." Which is saying a mouthful, as everybody will admit.

HONESTLY, to tell the story in detail would rob you of the real glee in these fast developing situations. You are introduced to the home of a lass that is beautiful but dumb; her fiance is an ambitious young jewelry manufacturer. His business is on the way of being absorbed in a big concern; the dickering for terms is on. The boss butts in, and by what she says and does, hopelessly entangles the bright prospects of her sweetheart. She turns the sublime into the ridiculous, pathos into bathos. Complications snap in and out, as the camera action speeds on. The result is a picture which may be well termed the best yet seen in its tumultuous pouring forth of the humor in the lives of ordinary American citizens.

THERE are good singers in the cast, as we know from hearing them in the past; but thanks be, here is a photoplay that trips on its way without falling even for one theme song. The dance music is that of a piano played by Donald Ogden Steward to accompany Franklin Pangborn's story. In one of the many hilarious episodes in this picture, it has a hundred laughs in this one sequence; and there is another that is a high spot of comedy. Miss Davies' handling of the bridge game. You can't beat this for keeping the cup of joy effervescing; it is a brilliant comedienne at her best.

MISS DAVIES gives as perfect a characterization as that of the stage. The part required much of the performer; Miss Davies has it all. She never once loses a point; her every line hits the target. It is one of her greatest roles. Next to her comes Mr. Stewart, a mighty versatile gentleman who here shines brilliantly as a comedian.

• • •

ON stage the major feature is Jeanette Hackett with her company of dancers. The orchestra, and Mr. Rogers at the organ, help along a mighty fine show.

JANET GAYNOR'S VACATION SETS HOLLYWOOD AGOG

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor

HOLLYWOOD, July 15.—Janet Gaynor is small, but oh, my! She slipped away to Honolulu without saying a word to the Fox Company or to any of her friends. She is scheduled to begin work on "Lucky Lou" three weeks and naturally this get-away has caused endless rumors in film circles.

Is this stand taken by Janet because of domestic difficulties? She left her new husband, Lydell Peck, at home and took only her mother with her on this sudden trip.

Louella O. Parsons

We hear things are not going so well in the Peck-Gaynor menage. Of course it may be just one of those reports which have followed Miss Gaynor and Lydell Peck since they were married in San Francisco less than a year ago. Mr. Peck continues to write scenarios at Paramount, while his bride is one of the Fox Company's high-powered stars.

Meanwhile Frank Borzage waits with megaphone in hand for little Gaynor, who has not volunteered an explanation.

KING VIDOR has had "Billy the Kid" on his mind a long time. A year ago we printed in this column that the boy bandit with the angelic cast of countenance would be featured in a Vidor special. Now comes the official announcement from the Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer studios that the next King Vidor picture will tell the story in dialogue of the boy whose career is still a matter of great interest to those who love to read these thrilling tales of unlawful adventure. Johnny Mack Brown with the southern drawl and the natural appearance of a young innocent will play the role of Billy That's probably Mr. Brown's best assignment yet, for Vidor pictures are no small event on the motion picture calendar. And this "Billy the kid" ought to be a natural. King has studied assiduously every angle of the youthful bandit's colorful life.

NEVER in the history of motion pictures have so many contracts been abrogated. Producers are buying contracts with a free hand preferring in some cases to take losers rather than run the risk of filming uncertain stories. In other cases the stars have taken the bit in their own teeth and arranged for a release. Glenn Tryon's contract expires in July. He is trying to arrange with Junior Laemmle for a release. Laura La Plante, who for the last few years has been the favorite Universal comedienne, negotiated a release on her contract, which had well more than two years to run. Whether the fair Laura took a loss or not has not been made public, but I am inclined to think a compromise was reached whereby Miss La Plante was paid a certain portion of her contract.

WINFIELD SHEEHAN, in spite of innumerable business meetings, has had time to sign up a few people for the Fox company. One of them, Rube Goldberg, is getting ready to leave for the coast to write a musical picture for the Fox company, According to Mr. Sheehan, May should see Rube all settled in his new office on the Fox lot. "We may," says Winnie, "expect some typical Goldberg humor."

IT looks as though the first John McCormack singing film has been voted good enough to call for more. At any rate the silver-toned Irish tenor has purchased a slice of Hollywood upon which the third of his palatial residences will soon be erected And she looks as though John plans to spend some time in the studios.

The million dollar home will be built on an estate of one hundred and forty-five acres about a mile back in the swanky Outpost Estates development. I understand the influence of Old Erin will be apparent in the landscaping and architecture, so some thatched roofs may soon mingle with the Spanish castles.

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood collected by an observer: Clara Bow, pounds thinner, talking business with the boys in the publicity office. Ned Sparks and Leon Errol reminiscing on their Seattle honky-tonk days. The Lubitsches, Evelyn Brent, Harry Edwards and others dining with Carmel Myers and Ralph Blum in their new Beverly Hills home. James Gleason taking a spill on Will Rogers' polo field. Richard Barthelmess back in town being given the glad hand by his friends. Erno Rapee, famous New York orchestra conductor, one of the celebrities on the Warner lot. Sue Carol and her new husband, Nick Stuart, judging a dance contest at the Montemartre. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

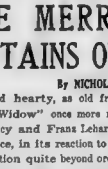
"THE MERRY WIDOW" RETAINS OLD CHARM

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

HALE and hearty, as old friends always should be, "The Merry Widow" once more moves upon the town with its fun and fancy and Franz Lehar's coaxing melodies. If a first night audience, in its reaction to the theater's best medicine, exhibits an elation quite beyond ordinary run of things, it is more than evident that the drama, musical or otherwise, is not as ailing as reported. The performance at the Majestic last night thoroughly disposed of all doubts.

• • •

HOW many of the brave veterans of other days among the theater's ardent disciples braved the hazards of Tremont attraffic to renew acquaintance with an old friend may not be easily counted; we do know, however that they packed the big house until its walls bulged and then made great hallelujah over the entire proceedings. The reception was spontaneous; you could tell that by its never-let-go determination If there is anything in this eternal youth proposition, "The Merry Widow," you might say, has definitely settled the question.



Nicholas Young

PROBABLY no musical play, except "Robin Hood," has taken possession of the Boston stage for as many performances as "The Merry Widow." It has spanned the years, since the late Henry W. Savage first brought it to the Tremont a quarter of a century ago, by indulging in frequent revivals—some of them satisfactory, others fair and even others not so well done. So, therefore, "The Merry Widow" is no total stranger to this generation; at least not to those who have settled down to raise families.

AND yet with all its more than 30-year lapse since the local playgoer first tested its charms, you now discover it in almost original form, for Donald Brian, the first of the dancing Danilos, comes back for more applause in his old role of the profligate prince. If Mr. Brian fared well at the hands of a friendly audience, you may be quite sure that the performance was made brighter by his labors. Time has not robbed him of a single item that makes youth and agility the important essential of musical comedy romance. He made it a great frolic; an impressive demonstration that boys always will be boys.

Olga	Mildred Newman

BUT Mr. Brian was not alone in the evening's scattered pleasures. A new Sonia crossed the stage—Beppie De Vries, graceful, blondish and altogether a tempting maid for any tenor or baritone. To the title role, Miss De Vries brought charm, and a talent for acting quite apart from the natural demand for a singing voice. In all this she fully measured up to every expectation. Running close upon the heels of his featured companions, Oscar Figman set up a splendid example of what an experienced, finished comedian should do when duty calls. For first honors in the performance he pressed hard upon both Mr. Brian and Miss De Vries.

Two Scenario Chiefs Engaged by Columbia

Harry Cohn, vice president in charge of production, has signed two scenario chiefs to function over two separate departments. Edward T. Lowe, Jr., has been engaged to supervise story material, continuities and dialogue for the balance of the company's current season's product while Leonard H. Fields guides similar activities for next season's product.

MIAMI FIGHT FILM HERE

THERE is a treat for sporting fans at the Old Howard this week where the management is presenting the pictures of the recent Sharkey-Scott battle for the heavyweight championship. These films are of real interest owing to the fact that the Englishman claimed that Sharkey had fouled his several times during the short contest. The management also presents Jack Sheehan, who explains the contest as he saw it at the ringside.

The burlesque card is "Bowery Burlesquers," a lively band of funmakers, with Clyde Bates at the helm. Sixteen girls keep things humming with their songs and dance features

Bebe Almond, a newcomer to the Howard, is one of the outstanding members of this company and Flo Heyman, Nana May and Ann Trotman add bits to the show. Continuous vaudeville and pictures make up the bill.

LOU WOLHEIM DOES WELL IN SHIP ROLE

"THE SHIP FROM SHANGHAI," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's adaption of Dale Collins' novel, "Ordeal," now on view at Loew's Orpheum, leaves the well beaten track of film romance to depict the story of a group of people at sea who are driven to desperation as a result of a mutiny by the ship's crew. Ninety per cent of the setting is laid on the high seas. Louis Wolheim, as the half-mad steward who gains control of the ship, gives a brilliant performance. Others in the cast in prominent roles are Conrad Nagel, Kay Johnson, Carroll Myers and Holmes Herbert.

Conrad Nagel

This week's vaudeville headliner, Rose Wyse, Jr., a dancing marvel, twists about in so many different ways that one wonders how he is able to do it. A feature of this young man's act is a series of head-spins he performs in which he bounces his head on the floor much like a rubber ball. He is assisted throughout by his mother and father.

The Betty Jane Cooper revue brings to the footlights a group of talented juveniles, led by Miss Cooper who excel in intricate tap and acrobatic dance routines. Lillian Dawson registers high. Other members of the revue are Charlie and Buddy Harak, Leon Martin and Nick Dorsey, all first-rate dancers.

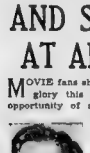
RICARDO CORTEZ AND YOUNG DOUG FAIRBANKS GET BIG HAND

ON SCREEN AND STAGE AT ALBEE

MOVIE fans should be in their glory this week with the opportunity of a double "shot" at the Keith-Albee. Not only has Manager Sid Lawrence an entertaining feature film, but on stage he has for headliner a screen hero who turns out to be capable in vaudeville indeed. He is none other than Ricardo Cortez, swinging about the RKO circuit in between his studio engagements at Hollywood. The motion picture is "The Careless Age." From advance reading we had gotten an idea it was to be "just another" of those things about jazzy youth. But it turns out to be different enough to be highly diverting. Moreover, several performers not wont to turn in a striking histrionic effort, "do themselves proud" and merit the laurel chaplets.



Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.

THE story is sophisticated. It is based on John Van Druten's stage play "Diversion." Its theme is the adventures of a young medico who falls in love with an older actress. It is served up with much European raciness, so that it develops a lot of spirit as it moves along. It is cleverly directed, the lines sparkle, and there is a proper show of speed. It is not motion picture in the real sense; that is, the cameras are not given the sweep, merely because the play is confined to the stage limits of photographed drama.

HALF a dozen in the cast stand out with their contributions. Among these are Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., really acting where his custom has been merely to look the role; Holmes Herbert, excellent as the father; Kenneth Thomson, fine as the cynical brother; and Loretta Young and Carmel Myers, both of whom do creditably. Wilfred Noy is the titled Lothario.

* * *

MR. CORTEZ is bound to please his admirers vastly, and all others as well. He appears in a dramatic piece, titled "Wanted." He has personality, looks, fine voice, and ability to act. His work is a revelation of talent; his future pictures should be even better than his past. Other acts on the good RKO vaudeville bill include Savoy and Mann, Cortini, Lester Bros., and Maria De Conn.

"Right of Way"

Frank Lloyd will direct the talker version of Sir Gilbert Parker's "The Right of Way." Conrad Nagel and Loretta Young will have the leading roles. Francis Faragoh has done the adaptation.

Vagabond and Inspiration

JEANETTE MacDONALD AND DENNIS KING
PREMIERE of "The Vagabond King" at the Uptown on Thursday night will have the King-MacDonald duo in the leading roles. The film will have an extended run at the theater.

SCOLLAY STAR READS MINDS WITH EASE

MERCEDES, called the "only man in the world who is able to transmit music through the air by brain power," heads the vaudeville program at the Scollay Square Olympia this week. During the past ten years he has been traveling all over the country giving demonstrations of transmitting music through the air to his assistant, who sits blindfolded at a piano some distance away. Mercedes passes through the audience, the patrons in turn whisper musical selections they wish to be played by his assistant on the stage. Then they audibly ask Mlle. Stanions to "play my selection." No mention of the title is made, apparently, yet Mlle. Stanions responded in every instance.

Alice White

The screen attraction is "Playing Around," with Alice White and Chester Morris.

WHALER FILM AT REPERTORY

THAT splendid whaling picture, "Down to the Sea in Ships" is the feature at the Repertory this week. It is the epic film of the industry that made New Bedford, Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard famous the world over years ago; and into it is woven a romantic story, in which Clara Bow appears.

MARY NOLAN IN "UNDERTOW" AT PARK

MARY NOLAN in her all-talking feature, "Undertow," heads the bill at the Park this week. The exotic blonde star, who previously has shone in comedy drama roles, now has a role which definitely marks her as among the finest emotional actresses.

A powerful story, laid for the most part in a lighthouse several miles from shore, "Undertow" offers plenty of thrills and picturesqueness. Supporting the star is Johnny Jack Brown, who deserted the girl-born for the screen. Robert Ellis, who scored so signally in Broadway, and Audrey Ferris and Churchill Ross have other important parts.

"Undertow" was directed by Harry Pollard, the man who made "Show Boat."

Ken Maynard in an all talking western picture "Parade of the West," with Gladys McConnell, Jackie Hanlon and Otis Harlan is another feature of the program.

Here and There

WALDRON'S—"Mischief Makers," a Mutual burlesque show. Featured in the cast are Margie Way, Harry Meyers and Milt Frankford.

GLOBE—"Hot for Paris" and "The Sacred Flame" starring Thursday. "Murder on the Roof" and "Painted Heels" featuring Helen Kane and William Powell.

BARBER SHOP SCENE A HIT

"YE OLD TIME BARBER SHOP," one of the three scenes in "Big Revue" at the Gaiety, proves about as hilarious a farce as could be imagined. Manicurists, old-fashioned shaving methods, and even some singing and dancing was included in the general fun-fest which mark that act.

Claire Devine, Lillian Dixon, Fred Reeb and Phil Hart are the stars of the show, but none of them ever appeared to any better advantage than in that one scene.

The dancing numbers are for the most part contained in two other scenes. These are, "The Dance of the Painted Dolls" and "Now, Then and Sometime" "Cheri," a special featured dancer, takes the opportunity to display some of her sensational stepping.

An added feature to the program is the appearance of "The Four Chocolate Dandies," a quartet of fast-stepping, harmony-singing entertainers under the direction of William Fontaine.

LATE WINTER DAYS TRYING ON COMPLEXION

Nightly Beauty Routine Advised by Expert

By JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON
World Famous Beautician

Josephine Huddleston

THE most trying beauty season of all is approaching, but, perhaps, I can help you to live through this stage more happily and a more beautifully.

Late winter and those occasional p r e - spring days are not to be trusted. It is a trying time which may bring worry lines unless we assume a state of mind that eases our disposition and our beauty.

But what to do? That is the question, and although its detailed answering must remain with you, there are some outstanding points that should be considered most seriously just now.

The complexion is apt to appear a bit faded, probably because the general let down between seasons carries into all parts of our toilette. But this must not be. Because it is at this season that we lay the foundation for our beauty of the coming months.

Therefore the first suggestion I would like to make is that an extra half hour be devoted to special attentions in your nightly beauty routine.

After cleansing the face and throat thoroughly, apply a liberal amount of nourishing cream and pat that gently into the skin. Let it remain on while you go through an exercise routine that will trim down your figure.

After the exercising, remove the nourishing cream, apply a skin tonic, patting it gently but liberally to all parts of the face, neck and chest. Reach down the back of the neck as far as you can, both with the nourishing cream and skin tonic application.

A wee bit of nourishing cream should then be placed around the eyes, on the upper lids as well as food to this sorely tired area.

The olive-oil baths, taken two or three times each week, will prepare your skin for bathing-suit days so that when the time actually arrives you can appear upon the beach with never a trace of the humiliation that comes from seeing others green with a skin fairer and softer than yours.

Olive-oil baths are not new to many of you, but for the uninitiated the term olive-oil bath merely means the rubbing of a liberal amount of olive oil into the skin immediately after a rather warm bath.

If dry pimples mar the clearness of the skin on your legs, arms or thighs, the following treatment will wipe them away with a few weeks. Then should can be dispensed with entirely if you will substitute a stiff flesh brush for washcloth and scrub those susceptible parts of your body a bit more vigorously than you have been doing.

Cut one bar of castile soap into thin flakes, add this to one pint of cold water and set the mixture over a slow fire to simmer until all the soap has dissolved. Remove from the fire, pour into a container with a large enough opening to permit you to dip your hand into it. When the liquid soap has cooled and before it actually jells, add one cupful of yellow cornmeal, bring the cornmeal through the liquid with a fork.

Used to eliminate the dry pimples which are clogging the pores and marring the smoothness of the skin, simply dip the hand into the mixture and rub it vigorously over the affected area. Then follow your usual bath routine.

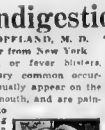
Indigestion Causes Cold Sores

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.
U. S. Senator from New York



Dr. Copeland

COLD sores, or fever blisters, are of very common occurrence. They usually appear on the lips, or in the mouth, and are painful things to have. Young people are often afflicted with them, at first because of their unsightly appearance, but they cause no end of embarrassment.

The condition is called "herpes" by the doctors. The cold sore on the lip is painful for here the nerves are very sensitive.

The most common cause is indigestion. It is a condition which often accompanies influenza, pneumonia, any other disease where there is high fever.

The cold sore begins with a decided discomfort or pain in the lip, or other affected part. This continues for several hours. Then the sore spot grows red and begins swell. Small blisters appear, filled with a clear fluid at first, afterward turning to a milky color. The blisters may run together, after which they dry up, forming a brown or yellow crust. In a few days the scab drops off, leaving a red spot. After about a week or ten days the spot is healed.

There are some who have repeated attacks of these sores. In such a case the underlying and continuing cause should be found and corrected.

Sometimes after prolonged dentistry fever blisters may form on the lips. When the teeth or mouth are in bad condition a bad infection may result and a great sore form.

In the case of children, cold sores often appear on the cheek. They sometimes attack the inside of the mouth, the nose, or even the eyes.

In the early stages of cold sores one should apply alcohol, spirits of camphor, colgene or any other alcoholic lotion. Witchhazel is healing.

When the soreness continues, apply boracic acid, bicarbonate of soda, saltpeter or alum. Any of these will hasten a cure. The blisters should not be touched with water or grease of any sort, as they should be kept dry. Neither should you ever touch them with the hand, for all sorts of germs are carried by the hand.

Whenever there is any soreness of the skin, the hands or fingers should never touch the spot. Children should be taught this. Infection of the worst sort may result in some cases.

Find the cause of repeated attacks of cold sores and have it corrected. Such a condition indicates an upset stomach, or poisons from teeth, nose or throat infections, possibly. Build up your body resistance with proper food, rest, exercise and fresh air.

If there is not prompt response to these simple applications talk with your doctor. His aid may be required to locate the real cause.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

MRS. E. R. Q—What do you advise for kidney trouble?

A—Treatment should be outlined by your own doctor.

Mrs. T. M. H Q—What do you advise for low blood pressure?

A—This is a disturbance usually found accompanying some other condition. For further particulars, send a self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question. Proper diet and general care will usually bring about results.

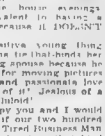
The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND.



Helen Rowland

THE reasons for which women divorce their husbands these days are getting sillier and sillier—more and more irrational.

It was bad enough to break up a home because your husband used the wrong fork or pinched the toothpaste at the wrong end.

But now we have the spectacle of a young wife applying for freedom with the plea that because his hand insists on playing in the house evenings which is equivalent in having a tooth pulled because it DOESN'T ache also.

Another sensitive young thing wants to cut the tie that binds her to her husband because he insists he has a complex for moving pictures with thrilling and passionate love scenes. Think of Jealousy of a few reels of celluloid!

Yet how happy you and I would be, dear heart, if only two hundred pounds of Tired Business Man could be dragged out to that kind of post thereby giving who can take his romantic endurances and all his thrills vicariously ought to be a happy husband!

Many a women would thank Heaven if her husband could get a kick just looking over the picture of a drinking scene or if he could satisfy his sporting blood merely by gazing at pictures of President Hoover pulling in a bass.

Lots of little married women would have forgotten what loves young dream was like if they could not refresh their memories and imaginations by getting a few vicarious thrills at the movies.

Human nature MUST have some way of escaping from the realities and indulging in its dreams. Only a brand-new bride will try to censor her husband's thoughts and dreams. After a few years of domesticity a wife is only too glad if her darling will take it all out in his imagination.

Every man and woman has somewhere deep down inside a long ing for the romantic, the glamorous, the beautiful, the exotic. We are all Peter Pans at heart.

Lucky the woman who is married to a man who can get all his romantic exhibitions out of his system just by sitting in a darkened movie theater and paying at prices of alluring women, of will whoopee parties.

That's what plays and books and music and movies are FOR! To take us away from realities, waft us upward on a magic carpet and let us roam in a fancy though a land of romance and delight, where all the men are handsome and gallant, the women are lovely and alluring, all the days are trances and all the nights are dreams.

But some women would feel that a husband was unfaithful if he looked twice at the Statue of Liberty.

Mistake to Wed Secretly

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My boy friend and I are both college students. As we are very serious, we wish to finish our course. Meanwhile, we have to live at home, and our parents, who partly support us, discourage our marrying. We thing of a secret marriage. Will you advise us?

RACHEL.

Beatrice Fairfax

Many people would assure you, Rachel, that you are new having the best part of life, with a chance to study, a devoted lover, and freedom from grown-up worries. I do not say this, for I believe in the supreme happiness that marriage can bring. But do not make the grave mistake of marrying secretly and premature ly. Young people as intelligent and as conscientious as you both are will see that you have absolute ly no right to marry while you are dependent on your parents who oppose it. Besides, don't tinge with secrecy the most important action of your life. When that takes place, let it be unconcealed and radiant.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a girl in my teens and have been going with a fellow for over a year. We are very much madly in love, and to whom I have been engaged about six months.

Now my problem is this: My mother was a widow. About five years ago she married again. My stepfather thought quite a lot of my mother but didn't seem to like us children, as my mother divorced him on account of us. Now do you think I should get married and leave her? Or should I wait a while longer? She doesn't object to my getting married, but she doesn't want me to move away, and that is what I would have to do, as my fiance is employed out-of-town.

TROUBLED BRIDE-TO-BE.

IF you are in your late teens and there is no other objection to your marriage except that it will mean your moving away from your mother, I do not think you should let that fact prevent your going on with your wedding plans.

Every mother must lose her children sooner or later through marriage and when a woman marries her first duty is to her husband. Your mother will find it hard at first to get on without you, but she can adjust herself to new conditions, and she should find comfort in the thought that her daughter is happily married to the man she loves.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a girl of 18 and have always looked upon a certain boy as my ideal. I found out about a month ago that he has not lived up to my opinion of him; still I care as much as when we were in school together. A few weeks ago we met and while he confessed he cared, he told me to "forget," and we would be "just good friends." I feel there will never be anyone else just the same. Would you take me seriously if I told you to forget you try to care for someone else?

TRUE BLUE.

WHEN the boy friend says "forget" and he "just good friends," there isn't any other course open to you as a self-respecting girl. Eighteen is apt to imagine there "will never be anyone else just the same." Don't take a boy school fancy too seriously. You have other admirers, you say. That's very fortunate as you will not be obliged to mope and think of your changeable school friend. Why not enjoy your youth for a year or two without thinking of marriage?

Lovejoy -:- Serial by Beatrice Burton of town," Aline told Lovejoy on Thursday morning when she stopped in for a moment on her way downtown, "but she says she'll find some extra man or other and bring him along . . . Now, please do come, Lovejoy dear, and help me. I want you to make that stuffed cucumber salad of yours."

The four women always cooked the meal on Thursday nights. For Thursday was Jarvis' night off and it was so easy for four pairs of hands to cook a meal.

"And so much more fun than going out to a restaurant," as flufly little Elsie Lambert always said.

It never would have occurred to her to stay at home on Thursday nights to get a meal for her husband.

"I didn't know how to boil an egg when I was married," she had told Lovejoy one night, "and I really don't know how to do it now. I never would have learned how to make coffee if I didn't like it so much. Cooking is just a mystery to me, and I hope it always will be."

It was always Elsie's job to set the table and make the coffee and these Thursday evening gatherings.

She was setting the table in Aline's beautiful dining-room on this particular evening when Lovejoy walked into the house.

"Hello, Elsie!" Lovejoy greeted her. "I'm going to be a widow part of the evening, too—Tom just telephoned to say that he wouldn't be able to get here until half past eight or nine——"

She stopped talking suddenly, her voice sticking in her throat. The swinging door from the pantry was opening and there, with a stack of plates in his hands, stood Steve Ostrow.

"Oh, I'm not a widow too, am I, brought Steve," she heard Elsie say in her high-pitched voice.

Well, he's not, Lovejoy thought Lovejoy, and he'll expect me to make up my mind about him.

And all at once she knew that her mind was made up . . . She had been making it up all those nights when she had lain in bed staring into the summer darkness and thinking of Tom across the hall.

She was going to leave Tom. No matter what it cost, she was going to leave him.

I can't keep on living the way I've been living, she thought. With Tom like an enemy in the house. Never speaking to me except when he wants to yell about the high cost of living.

All through the meal she could feel Steve watching her apparently. But he kept his distance, sitting on the far side of the table between Aline and Elsie Lambert.

Etiquette of the Formal Dance

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1—I am invited to a large formal dance and would like to know what to do. Does one shake hands with the patronesses as soon as one enters the place of dancing, or after one comes from the dressing room.

2—Does the gentleman introduce the lady to the patronesses and should the young lady just nod her head in recognition of the introduction

3—Are there patronesses at formal dances, too?

Dorchester. KATE

1—First leave your wrap in the coatroom, and then, when you enter the ballroom, at once go to the patronesses and greet them, before you begin to dance. This is as important as greeting your hostess at any other kind of party.

2—If the gentleman knows the patronesses and the lady does not, he would introduce her to the patronesses. Otherwise, there will be probably someone on hand to make the introductions.

It is not enough that the lady "nod her head in recognition of the introduction." This kind of introduction or meeting is a very important one, and should be met most graciously. The lady uses the same formula that she would use, I hope, for any other introduction: "How do you do?" with the addition of the name of the patroness, if she knows it or is sure that she had heard it correctly. "How do you do, Mrs. Wagsole?" Then she would say one or two pleasant amenities, something to show that she is used to meeting people; something about the charm of the occasion, about the special artistry of the decorations, about the festive look of the gathering, or about the music, or even, about the weather, that most fertile of conversational topics. Something, as you see, very general, but said with special graciousness.

3—Usually.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN

1—Would you kindly tell me how a married woman would sign her name when writing a business letter?

2—Should a lady remain seated when being introduced to a gentleman of her own age, or older?

3—Should a lady rise when a man, either younger or older than she is, enters the room for the first time?

Brookline. MRS W. P. A

1—This is the correct form:
Very truly yours,
MARY SMITH JONES.
(Mrs. Paul Jones)

The only detail in which this form may deviate is that the correct is if the woman wishes to omit the surname of her maiden name and use as her informal name Mary Jones. But the letter must on no account be signed "Very truly yours, Mrs. Paul Jones." This at once stamps the woman as unknowing of the ways of social forms.

2—Yes. A woman does not rise when a man is introduced to her. And, by the way, this is the very question should read—rather than "when a lady is introduced to a gentleman." The gentleman is introduced to the lady.

3—No.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you kindly give me the correct form of acceptance of an invitation to a wedding and reception afterwards? Should I use my husband's full name, or the initials only, as "Mr. and Mrs. J. F." or "Mr. and Mrs. John Ford Brown?"

Brookton. MRS W.

The acceptance is written for the reception only. Never, when you can avoid it, use initials instead of the name. And especially never do it on any detail that is the least bit formal or even social. Abbreviations are a sign of haste, of carelessness, and these have no place in the world of social forms. That is why, on the well-planned visiting card, you do not see initials.

This is the form of the acceptance:

Mr. and Mrs.
John Frederick Brown accept with pleasure
Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Allen's kind invitation for Monday, the first of March, at five o'clock

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN

1—I am expecting a baby in a few weeks and want to know just who should receive the baby announcement cards? Should I send them to close friends who will like to have the birth long before I could get the cards out?

2—When should these cards be mailed out?

JANICE.

1—Send the birth announcements to all your friends, even if you think that they have heard of your baby's birth before you have a chance to send out the cards. It will do no harm to mail announcements to them, and, if you do not, they might wonder why they were left from your list.

2—As soon as you find it convenient after the birth. You might perhaps find time to address the envelopes beforehand and then you could mail them earlier.

Let's Have Ham Tonight

HAVE you had ham for dinner lately? If you haven't, or for that matter even if you have, a new method of preparing will make this satisfying meat a real treat.

PLANKED HAM STEAK DINNER

1 slice ham ¾ inch thick.
1 cup fruit juice.
4 small cored red apples, baked.
4 parboiled green peppers.
3 cups mashed potatoes.
¼ cup milk.
2 eggs.

Score fat around ham. Broil 10 minutes without turning, basting several times with fruit juice. Then remove to heated platter or oven plank. Bake apple or broiled side down. Add milk, butter and eggs to mashed potatoes, beat thoroughly. Season to taste and with pastry bag or spoon fill peppers. Arrange around ham with apples. Return to oven to heat through and brown ham and potatoes. Garnish with water cress or parsley. Total time 40 minutes.

BAKED HAM SLICE WITH PEPPERS

Cook a ham butt, allowing 15 minutes to the pound. Remove the rind and score the fat surface well with 2 tbsps sugar, 2 tsps. powdered cloves and 1 tsp. mustard ground to a sweet green pepper. Place ham butt in baking dish cover fat surface with the pepper, add 2 cups ham stock, cover roaster and bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees F.), allowing 12 minutes to the pound. Baste occasionally. Serves 6. Total time (4-lb. ham butt) 2½ hours.

Faithfully yours,
MARTHA LEE.

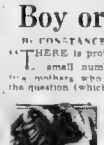
Do You Want Boy or Girl?

By CONSTANCE CAMERON.



Constance Cameron

"THERE is probably but a very small number of prospective mothers who have answered the question (which somehow is always asked), "Do you want a boy or a girl?" with "I don't care which it is, I shall be glad for either."

No, the usual reply is a decided verbal wish for either one or the other.

We are not going to discuss what effects these decisions and longings have upon the unborn offspring. I shall leave that to people who know more about it that I do, if indeed anyone has conclusive proof that it has an effect.

Many is the mother who has thought much which should not not have been desired simply because she was disappointed in the sex of her baby.

I have in mind a man whose mother yearned for a little girl. When the first son had a son she compensated for her disappointment by dressing the little curls, fluffy waists, teaching him to sew when he should have been outdoors at play. And the pitiful story of selfishness which has ruined her life and his. The man has never married, probably never will.

The early childhood impressions have so much to do with developing one does is effeminate. Physically, a perfect specimen of manhood, he still shows ridiculous weakness he goes, and I wonder what satisfaction the mother gleans from that.

But the point I'm trying to make I don't any moral right to go to any length to make a girl a boy or a boy a girl. A child is a lovely gift. Why not be thankful for it and love it for what it is, whether it is a boy or a girl? It is not in your power to do it to make over genius. Nature has already established your sex.

If you have a boy for goodness sake let him be a boy and if you have a girl let her develop and sound out her feminine charms.

Household Hints

A teaspoonful of vinegar added to lard used for frying prevents the food from absorbing too much fat.

Powdered starch rubbed over walls with a soft cloth will remove all stains.

Remove ink stains from a deal table by dabbing with cold water and adding a little common salt.

If a baked custard has water at the bottom of the dish it is probably because the milk was not slightly warmed before the eggs were added.

* * *

If any bread seems sour and acid it is not fit to eat, as it must have been made with sour yeast, cold flour which has gone bad or mixed in bins which were not properly clean. If a white loaf appears unnaturally white it is not fit food for delicate people or children it will probably bring about indigestion.

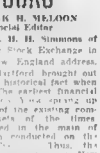
SLAVES SOLD ALONG WITH STOCKS

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

President E. H. H. Simmons of the New York Stock Exchange in his latest New England address, delivered at Hartford brought out a little known historical fact when he stated "The earliest financial markets in New York were put on in the midst of the existing commercial markets of the times. These consisted in the organization of auctions often conducted on the very floors of the stock exchanges. Thus, the first sale of negroes in New York was made at the auction sale of [illegible] personal property, including a number of African slaves, are recorded."



Henry F. Long, commissioner of corporations and taxation, furnishes us with the latest Ray State "business straw, and a straw it is. The public is by no means impressed with the October - November stock market crash. He declares that more stock was issued this year than ever before are paying the direct state income taxes at the present time of filing.

Perhaps because the interstate motor bus lines are not "organized," there appears to be a disposition in political circles to accept the idea that they ought to be under federal regulation. One State Street broker, however, rises to object, declaring that they are already supervised in their assortment of registration plates placing them under state control wherever they travel.

There is also a widely prevalent idea that their prices need federal regulation. How this sprang up it is hard to guess, since competition has so far served to make the fare rates of most of the passenger carriers so low that it is doubtful whether they make much money. Certainly some are lucky if they break even for the past year. Comparing the bus lines with the railroads and saying the bus lines have no right of way to maintain is not good, since railroads operate a large percentage of the buses. Stockholders and the general public alike are interested.

Robert C. Clark, president of the National Association of Securities Commissioners, will tell "How the State Seeks to Protect the Investor" on the Hulsey-Stuart & Co. radio program tomorrow night, which will be broadcast over a chain of 37 stations. The associa-

Public corporations—towns and cities—in many sections of New England adhere to the old custom of holding their annual meetings in March. A good many of the private corporations also meet in March. An odd situation is to be revealed at one coming meeting, when it will be charged that large salaries paid to so-called "efficiency experts" have done harm to the corporation.

An interesting history of banking cluding the description of financial transactions which occurred at Babylon about the year 2000 B.C. was given by Robert Tappan, vice-president of the National Shawmut Bank before the Kiwanis City Club of Boston.

"Modern banking in its many branches is one of the most complicated and beautifully devised systems to take care of every financial transaction with a minimum cost to the customer, in consideration of expense and danger of loss. No one may appreciate the relative values of various types of banking service if with the market clearer to briefly renew the origin of banking," said Mr. Tappan.

* * *

"At first it was a very small business transacted, but now that the variety of transactions has developed so markedly, banking today is quite extensive. Originally there was no money or standard of value. If you wanted grain, or cattle you had to find someone who had more grain or cattle than he needed and also find something that he wanted in exchange for his product. Of course, such a method as this was very cumbersome and a certain commodity became customary to exchange for your products so many ounces of gold or silver had to find, purchase the products which you needed.

* * *

"When you borrow money it is similar to renting a house. You pay a certain amount for the use of it for a definite number of months. Our earliest records show that loans were made the Temple of Babylon 2000 B.C. An excellent idea of the prevalent system at that time is to be found in the translation of a tablet which reads: 'Two shekels of silver have been borrowed by Mas-Schamach, the son of Addrimmi from the Sun Priestess Amat-Schamach, daughter of Warac-Enhill. He will pay the Sun God interest. At the time of the harvest he will pay back the sum and interest upon it."

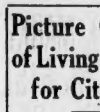
Picture Cost of Living Down for City Folk

How Country People Feel; Price Comparisons; Stock Caution

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, March 4—Folks in the country are sure that city dwellers must be enjoying low living costs mostly at their expense.

America's two main cash crops, wheat and cotton, both low far below a year ago, and so are most products of the soil. But whether city families are yet reaping benefit from current wholesale prices is not so certain. At best it takes time for a declining market to reach the ultimate consumer.



B. C. Forbes

Just how do commodity prices compare with a year ago?

Chicago wheat, after its sensational dip below the $1 mark, experienced a perfectly natural rebound. It is still 15 cents a bushel under a year ago. Corn is 15 per cent cheaper, and oats almost as much, while rye is down 35 cents.

Cotton was close to 21 cents a pound at the opening of last March; now it is only slightly above 15 cents, a drop of 25 per cent.

Butter, which commanded better than 50 cents a pound a year ago, now brings slightly less than 35 cents. Eggs have fallen from 46 cents to 39 cents—a seasonal matter for many rural families.

Coffee has been cut in price practically half; grades worth about 17 cents at wholesale last year, now bring less than 9 cents, while the drop in better grades has reached 10 cents a pound. Cocoa is off more than 2 cents a pound. Sugar at wholesale is fully 20 per cent cheaper.

Beef has gone down some, but pork has held its own.

Other commodities ruling below the level of 12 months ago include rubber (down 40 per cent), gasoline, silk, copper, lead, zinc, tin, silver (now at the lowest price on record).

It was long contended that full-title prosperity could be enjoyed only during a period of rising prices for commodities and manufactured goods as a whole. This theory was in large measure disproved during the "Coolidge boom" in stocks, in industry, in business, in employment. Prices maintained a remarkably steady average level during the years immediately preceding the unprecedentedly violent Wall Street collapse of last fall. Yet prosperity had reached a level never before attained in this country.

Therefore it may be rash to assume that the recent decline in many classes of commodities dooms any early substantial betterment in business or in securities.

The stock market itself has lately been foreshadowing—if it is functioning correctly—considerable improvement in general conditions. Average quotations closed the week close to to high point reached since the panic. They gained ground every day after Monday and the final session gave an impressive exhibition of confidence.

Then, too, although an extraordinarily large number of financiers, brokers and others actively interested in Wall Street are enjoying vacations from Broad and Nassau, it is noteworthy that the volume of activity has been increasing. This suggests a growing disposition among the public to enter the market in a modest way.

The writer discovered during a Southern journey that the prevailing attitude toward the stock market is one of "watchful waiting," with, however, a quite widespread intention of investing in stocks rather than in bonds or real estate once it has been definitely demonstrated that the market has overcome the effect of the panic and is headed upward. Unquestionably, a continuance of farmers' irregular advance would before long attract considerable outside buying.

Meanwhile, among professional operators bears are quite as numerous as bulls, despite easy and abundant money. They emphasize the gravity of the drop in farm prices—but the bulls reply that wheat passed out of farmers' hands months ago and that only speculators are now involved. The bulls contend, too, that the Farm Board will yet prove its worth.

Until the recovery in industry, business, agriculture and employment becomes rather more pronounced, prudence suggests a cautious policy.

Transamerica Pays Liberally, Says Elisha Walker

New York, March 4 (AP).—Elisha Walker, chairman of the Transamerica Corp., states there is little encouragement to any hope of an extra dividend in the immediate future, and that the present dividend of $1.60 in cash and 4 per cent. in stock should c considered a liberal disbursement.

CURB MARKET GAS AND OIL ISSUES UP

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

New York, March 4 (AP)—Price trends on the curb market generally turned upward after confused and irregular movements during the early hours of trading today.

Some of the oil and natural gas stocks were in strong demand, but shares in other sections of the list were mostly inclined to drift without decided direction.

Cities Service was a strong feature, rising about 2 points to a new high record for the year close to 37. This stock has moved narrowly until this week, when a flood of natural gas merger rumors poured into Wall Street.

Cities Service is primarily an oil stock, but it also has wide interests in natural gas. United Gas Co., a strong feature yesterday, was less active, but firm. Southwest Gas Utilities was again firm.

Gulf was a strong spot in the oils, rising more than 2 points. The petroleum issues, recently depressed by crude and refined price cuts, have been favorably affected by a curtailment of California crude output last week. Ohio Oil and Standard of Indiana moved up a point or so.

Deep to one about 5 points in response to a sharp advance in some of the farm implements on the big board. Fox Theaters A crept up to 8, a new high for the movement, in buying in anticipation of favorable results fro mthe Fox stockholders meeting to take up reorganization plans tomorrow.

Ulen & Co. reached a new high for the year in response to a favorable earnings report, showing 1929 net of $3.43 a share.

There were several soft spots in the industrials, however, American Maize and Heyden Chemical touching new lows for the year. Technicolor was heavy.

The utilities were rather sluggish. Considerable selling had to be absorbed, but most issues were supported around yesterday's closings levels. Electric Shareholders moved more than 2 points. Electric Bond & Share eased fractionally at times.

BIG RECOVERY FOR STOCKS

Up to the end of February the stock market had recovered almost 50 per cent of the losses sustained between August 30 and November 13, according to Frazier Jelke & Co. The market value of 1,201 common stock issues at the end of February was $31,809,110,000, compared with $43,447,945,000 on August 30 and $24,274,384,000 on November 13. The 100 issues experienced a maximum drop of $19,173,000,000 and the recovery to date has been $7,634,726,000.

In the month of February there was a gain of $744,968,000, or 2.4 per cent. This is a considerably smaller recovery than that registered in January, when there was a gain of 6.3 per cent. Eight of the 13 groups which constitute the index advanced, while five declined.

The losses were registered in the merchandising group, 8.9 per cent; the oils, 3.6 per cent; the foods, 0.3 per cent; the mines, 0.2 per cent, and the utilities, 0.1 per cent. The largest gain was in the amusement and radio group, which advanced 21.1 per cent. The utilities gained 9.9 per cent; the miscellaneous industrials, 8.8 per cent; the electrical equipments, 5.7 per cent; the steels, 3 per cent, and the rails, 2.7 per cent. Of the 100 issues, 51 advanced, 35 declined and 11 were practically unchanged.

Since November 13 the largest recoveries have been registered in the utilities, electrical equipments and amusements. The smallest gains have been in the oils, mines, motors, foods and merchandising shares.

BONDS HIGHER, WITH EASIER MONEY SEEN

By JOHN L. COOLEY

New York, March 4 (AP).—Prospects of easy money, foreshadowed by the current activity in 12-month loans at 3 per cent, brought out a broad inquiry for high grade investment bonds today.

United States Governments have a good account of themselves in the early trading, the Treasury 3¾s rising 5-16 on a large turnover. Smaller gains were general throughout the rest of the group.

Atchison general 4s and some of the other high grade rails displayed marked improvement. The Santa Fe bond rose half 4 point and Central of New Jersey first 5s moved up a point. Canadian Pacific 5s, Pennsylvania 6½s, Southern Railway general 4s and Great Northern 7s were firm.

In the secondary list, Erie 5s encountered considerable selling, apparently on the plans for a large new issue bearing a similar coupon, and sagged 1⅜ to a new low for the year at 94.

Fisk Rubber 8s were a feature of the industrials, rising more than 2 points. Foreign issues were strong. East Cuba 7½s rallying 5 points. United Drug of Delaware 6s traded actively but without much change.

Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania 5s led the utilities with a gain of more than 2½ points.

CUT IN MONEY RATE WANTED

New York, March 3—Conversations have been held looking to another reduction in the rediscount rate. Banking and business groups in England desire it, as they want the Bank of England to cut again. The most powerful bankers here believe it is "too soon" for such action, however, and therefore it is not expected for awhile.

Our rediscount rate cannot be cut unless the other principal central banks are reduced because the plans of the international banking rulers would be upset.

Reduction at this time would take away from the banking powers the fulcrum which they plan to use as the last influence to bringing about the good bond market desired for reduction of reparations bonds.

It might help business a little, but the bankers think they have security and other markets under such control now that buying sentiment can be built up gradually and slow but steady gain in trade result.

They have effected a sound appearing stock market that is bolstering sentiment throughout the country.

Any threat of another wild speculative breakout will bring immediate disciplining, it is felt, but the banking powers will do all possible to encourage the same kind of firm trading market as witnessed in the past week.

New Haven Railroad was authorized by Interstate Commerce Commission to issue $4,545,000 equipmen trust certificates, which will be sold at not less than 97.73 per cent of par and accrued dividends.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

LARGEST EVENING
CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

Art Week

An Embarrassment of Riches

THIS is also Art Week in Boston.

As we study the program, a broadside almost as big as this page, we are reminded of our first three-rings-and-two-platforms circus.

Upon which of so many features should we center our attention? What can we say about it in so small a space?

The museums call you, Children's Museum, Fogg Museum, Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum, Museum of Fine Arts.

SIXTEEN private art schools exhibit the work of their students in a co-operative exhibit on the fourth floor of the temporary annex of Filene's.

In the gallery of the Jordan Marsh Company, a co-operative exhibit of the work of New England artists of today.

Merchants are showing window and departmental displays of typical merchandise. A display of commercial art, under the auspices of the Advertising Club, is on view at the Boston City Club.

Ladies will be interested in the announcement of an all-day conference to be held tomorrow at the Copley-Plaza Hotel, under the auspices of the State Federation of Women's Clubs. General subject: "Making Style Worth While." Topics for discussion: "Style and Fashion in Furniture," "Are Pictures in Fashion?" "The Fashion Trend in Silk Design," "The Decorative Possibilities of Cotton," "What Has the New Mode in Dress to Offer YOU?"

The bill is SO vast, SO varied, SO bountiful that one is embarrassed by its richness.

Mother and girls will be drawn to the stores, the clubs and the galleries.

Father, perhaps, will make himself a present of that long deferred visit to the Museum of Fine Arts, which, except on Monday, is open free from 9:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

Mayor Gillis

Newburyport Hears About a 9-Hour California Speech—and Fears the Worst

WHO HOLDS the "longest speech" record for New England? When was the speech delivered and under what circumstances?

Questions are suggested by the report of an extraordinary feat of the Honorable James Rolph, now serving his FIFTH four-year term as Mayor of San Francisco.

At 11 o'clock on a recent night, Mayor Rolph produced and began reading a speech which covered 300 typewritten pages. His hearers were members of the Board of Supervisors. Mr. Rolph read for nine hours, his hope being that the Supervisors might confirm the Rolph appointees to a War Memorial Commission.

Mayor Rolph, we are told, "would not be averse to rounding out his public career as Governor of California." Twenty years in the mayor's office of the city at the Golden Gate should be good training.

As the moment, however, we are not greatly concerned about Mr. Rolph and his political future.

What DOES concern is that the somewhat unconventional Mayor of Newburyport happens to be touring California, "looking for ideas."

His friends credit Mr. Gillis with having awakened Newburyport from "a sleep longer than Rip Van Winkle's."

A nine-hour speech would not only undo THAT good work, but spread the sleeping sickness as far up the Merrimack as Merrimacport and West Newbury.

At last accounts, "Bossy" was in the neighborhood of Hollywood, looking into the making of motion pictures. If he gets a good idea down there—and the place is alive with good ideas—let us hope it is not "all talkie."

A Vacation in July

And—for Young Men—Free of Charge

IF the young man who reads these lines is not under 17 or more than 24 years of age, "physically fit and of good moral character," we beg leave to direct his attention, thus early in the year, to the Citizens' Military Training Camps.

Our friends may have noticed last year a considerable falling off in the volume of advance publicity concerning these camps.

This was because there was at no time any doubt, at least in New England, that State quotas would be filled readily.

What the Government offers to its sons is an opportunity to spend a month in the open, with recreation, drill and supervised sports, AT GOVERNMENT EXPENSE.

If New England quotas ARE filled promptly, it is because the young men of New England, like most of their elders, know a bargain when it is placed before them. Such a vacation could not be bought for less than $100.

The training camp inculcates respect for authority, teaches discipline, is excellent training for the duties and responsibilities of citizenship. In case of necessity, its graduates will be found prepared for military service.

One of these days, the Commander of the First Corps Area will be calling for about 3000 enrollments. Camps will be opening about July 1st. We advise our young friends to be on the watch for the First Call.

But Names Will Never Hurt It

By NELSON HARDING

The crafty serpent, coiled to strike,
Will suffer not one broken bone
Because of powerless attacks
Delivered through a megaphone.

Denunciation will not harm,
Nor can much preaching crush the snake.
But if employed, the shotgun will
A very strong impression make.

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

AIMEE SEMPLE McPHERSON is the latest celebrity to warm up for the 10,000-foot celluloid sprint.

Aimee pops off the losing end of a wharf into the Pacific ocean and stays under water until the collection is taken.

Her next appearance is in the Mexican desert wearing a tasty bouquet of cactus. The villain, Don Jose Gila Monstro, whose business is raising red ants for picnics, falls in love with Aimee, but is arrested by mistake while smuggling Chinamen, opium and alcohol across the Rio Grande.

He is one sinister cabellero and threatens to toss a piece of blotting paper into the silvery Rio Grande, thereby drying up that magnificent dribble and bringing drought, taxes and more amendments to the farmers of the Imperial valley.

Aimee spurns his Spanish cusiome and is partially rescued by a parade of admirers in squad formation. The hero joins the Canadian Royal Mounted on bicycles with punctured tires.

Don Monstro and the here eye each other like John D. watching his diet. For there is neither east nor west, nor border, nay bread, nor birth, when two strong men stand face to face, even though one of them is Polly Morran.

They manage to reach Pomona, Cal. Aimee says it might have been worse. It might have been double Pomona.

There, far from civilization and modern accessories, is a broadcasting station. Aimee asks for succor and six of them are killed in the rush.

There is a short, desperate scene between Rin Tin Tin and Paul Whiteman's Orchestra. This is not a prima facie case because the only eyesewitness is Ben Turpin.

Don Monstro is revengeful. He never forgets an enemy or pays a friend. His outlaws sentence the hero to a slow death, buying a Hollywood bungalow on instalments.

There are 16 searching parties in the Mexican desert and all they do is find each other. Aimee is at Los Vegas teaching angels how to fly on the end of wires.

* * *

And the picture has a happy ending when Andy Mellon reduces the income tax 1 per cent.

H. G. Wells Writes on "The Science of Life"

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and Geo. P. Wells

AT the other extreme, bacteria spores have survived prolonged exposure to the temperature of liquid air (190 degrees C.) for six months.

H. G. Wells

Bacteria can live for very long periods in the spore stage, perfectly passive, waiting as it were in a trance for an opportunity to emerge and grow and divide.

They have been kept for three years in this condition and have been fully capable of revival at the end of that time. Taking the normal life-span of a bacterium as 20 minutes, these spores slept during the time of over a hundred thousand generations of active bacteria.

It is as if a man had passed into a trance ages ago, before ever the Pyramids were built—even before anything at all was built, for he might have been one of the earliest flint-chipping men—and woke blinking and rubbing his eyes at the present day to go about his accustomed occupations.

In this quiescent, resistant state bacteria spores wait on the ground, in the sea, in the air, for an opportunity to hatch and grow. They have been found frozen in icebergs. They have even been found in hailstones, which shows that they float very high in the air.

If they are lucky enough to settle in a suitable spot they grow and proliferate, in some species with almost miraculous speed. A flask of sterilized broth, inoculated with bacteria by dropping an infected needle into it, may become visibly turbid in 24 hours' time.

Every cubic inch of the broth will now contain some eighty thousand million organisms.

A striking peculiarity of bacteria is that they have no trace of a sexual stage in their life history. Even in the lowest protozoa and algae there are primitive kinds of sexual union, blendings of cell with cell. But nothing of the sort has ever been seen in bacteria.

They proliferate by dividing and then can do so vigorously and indefinitely without ever betraying that need for the refreshment that sexual union affords.

Considering the great number of different kinds of bacteria that are known, the forms that they may assume are very limited.

Their names are based in part on the shapes of their bodies. A rod-shaped bacterium, for example, is called a bacillus (or stick), aspherical bacterium is a coccus (or berry), and a curved or wriggling bacterium is a spirillum.

Some bacteria have long, lashing whips—either one, or a tuft at one end of the body, or a number bristling all over the surface of the creature.

And they may stick together in bunches or clusters or chains whose shape is characteristic of the species. But, nevertheless, their range of form is very limited. Often quite distinct species of bacteria look so much alike as to be distinguishable only by the effects that they produce.

There are, for example, three kinds of bacteria almost indistinguishable in appearance, with globular bodies that form little chains; the first causes the souring of milk, the second flourishes in our blood and causes a rapidly fatal infection, while the third is a perfectly harmless creature nearly always present in the healthy human mouth.

It is because of their physiological diversity that the bacteria are remarkable. There are bacteria which show the profoundest departures from the normal chemical method by which animals and plants get their energy.

Their engines run on unusual fuel. Some get energy by oxidizing simple inorganic compounds—for example, by turning the inflammable, foul-smelling gas sulphuretted hydrogen into sulphuric acid.

Others have to use sodium thiosulphate to make sulphuric acid. Others, again, can energize themselves by burning ammonia.

And by means of these devices the creatures can build up the complicated organic substance of which their bodies, like any other living bodies, consist, from such simple ingredients as water and carbon dioxide.

As a further curiosity, there are bacteria which can live, like yeasts, without oxygen, and there are even bacteria which shun oxygen and are poisoned by it.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, March 3—Few business ventures in New York have such unstable popularity as the restaurant. One night it may be blazing with light and the next deserted And once the shutters are closed, it is rare that interest is revived.

When I came to the big town, the crowded eating places were Rector's, the Knickerbocker, Churchill's, Shanley's and Martin's. Not one is open today. In each instance the high-class service had been maintained. But crowds began to drift elsewhere.

Restaurant popularity is at the mercy of a public whim. Sometimes this is the headwaiter, the orchestra, the decorations or special dishes. But mostly a cafe clientele is like sheep, blindly following the bell-wether. In New York people dine out chiefly to be seen.

Many restaurants—the Casino in the park is an example—have attained a sudden prosperity largely through exploitation of very high prices. Yet the appeal of swank is uncertain. Every restaurant insisting upon full dress has been invariably short-lived.

A conspicuous example of the rise and fall of a restaurant was noted in the closing of the restaurant Quan in the East Fifties. It was opened by Ping Quan, former steward on the presidential yacht Mayflower, and was decorated in the manner of a yacht deck.

Quan had won nation-wide notice as a cook for Coolidge and Harding, and a number of his dishes were named for them. The place got away to a flying start and the food was highly bespoke by gourmets. Yet just as suddenly trade fell away and Quan waited hopefully amid his empty tables.

Several years ago a cafe called The Flotilla was fitted up like a ship at the cost of a million dollars. It engaged the celebrated Theodore as maitre de hotel, but languished. One explanation was that its mantle trappings suggested seasickness. And maybe that is what happened at Quan's.

The power of suggestion does not always, however, affect appetites. For many years a lunch room patronized by seamen on West st. did a thriving business although it displayed a poisonous live snake in its window.

And San Francisco had—or did have last summer,—a prosperous restaurant called The Fly Trap.

I sat with Will Rogers through one act at the opening of his friend Fred Stone's play and turned suddenly to find the big stiff crying like a baby.

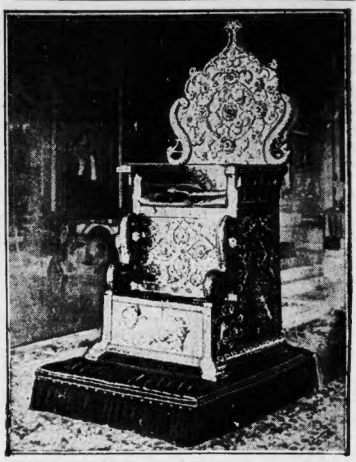
Persia's Peacock Throne

(Copyright, 1930)



A CHAIR COVERED WITH DIAMONDS, RUBIES, PEARLS

THIS is the well-known "peacock throne," now kept in the Gulistan Palace at Teheran, in Persia.

It is one of two peacock thrones in which the rulers of Persia have sat, gradually losing their power, dwindling away, since the day when young Alexander conquered and drove them out.

But while their POWER has diminished their childish pride in this throne, encrusted from top to bottom with precious stones of great value, has NOT diminished.

The last individual to sit on this throne, and he crowned, was Riza Shah Pahlevi, the energetic Persian, who used to be employed in the stables of the British Embassy in Persia.

He saw his opportunity in the great war and, like some other profiteers, profited by the occasion to seize the throne and place himself in the ancient line of Shahs.

By this time, as he parades up and down with his soldiers, people bowing and kneeling, he undoubtedly considers himself as good a Shah as ever ruled and exploited Persia.

It would be interesting to know what the two great peacock thrones, one of them stolen from India by one of the Shahs, would be worth, if they could be brought to Fifth avenue, New York, and chopped up into ornaments for ladies.

Enormous rubies, emeralds, diamonds, pearls, some of them perhaps fakes, thanks to the ingenious methods of dishonest servants, but most of them real, probably would be worth a great fortune.

However, it is not the diamonds or rubies, or the chair in which you sit that gives power, it is the quality of your soldiers, the quality of your own mind.

Strong iron, as the wise Solon told Croesus, is better than much gold. The British have strong iron, so they are the real rulers of Persia and could bring this throne home to the Prince of Wales if he wanted it.

However, he would say, "No, thank you."

WISE young Prince. He knows his democracy, and Britain is a real democracy.

AS you ride along the range, you may see a thin, dark line coming over the hills, moving slowly through the immense, brilliant sunshine. It is the cattle coming down for salt.

Elsie Robinson

From long miles they come, over the bleached soil, down the dry, stoney arroyos, straggling doggedly on in the stinging heat. The stones do not matter. Nothing matters except their need of salt. Every so often cattis must have salt, whatever the cost. And when that need comes, the greenest pastures cannot hold them. Out they must go in answer to that mysterious need.

Cattle moving across the range—People moving through life—Every so often they all must have salt.

For each one of us, regardless of station, there is that identical need. That need for something harsher, more bitter than our daily fare. . . perhaps more dangerous . . . but, whatever the danger, deeply, mysteriously essential to our existence. Salt . . . You've cried for it.

"I don't know what's the matter with me lately," you've said. "Everything's going all right. Things are a lot easier than they used to be. And yet, for some reason, I'm restless . . . everything gets my goat. I keep wanting something different . . . and I don't know what it is! Gee, I wish something would happen."

Look into the eyes of the next successful, middle-aged business man you meet. He has everything in the world, or so it seems to you. Yet, as you talk to him there creeps into his voice the echo of that same cry.

After he's done boasting about the clean-up he made last year, his new house, the French car he's just bought, the star sapphire he's ordered . . . suddenly he'll begin telling you about the chores he did as a boy. How he got up at 4:30 . . . raw, winter mornings . . . feeding hogs . . . helping his dad plough the south pasture . . . breathing on his chapped hands to ease the ache . . . or what a tough time he and Mary had to get along when he was only earning eighteen a week—

Odd how wistful he seems when he tells you about those times. You'd think he'd be glad they were over . . . but he isn't. He isn't because, those times held something for him that he has never found since. They held salt.

Danger, hardship, poverty, pain, loneliness, loss . . . rough words, bitter words . . . rough and bitter as salt. Yet they wake something in us . . . rouse a hunger . . . set us stirring restlessly in our green pastures . . . set us looking with bored or resentful eyes at the pleasures that yesterday amused us, at the safety we yesterday coveted.

Then . . . if there's anything left in us to move . . . off we go, leaving the fat pastures behind us . . . braving the sting and the danger of some new, lonely trail . . . following the urge . . . looking for salt.

Cattle, moving across the range . . .

People, moving through life . . .

Every so often they all must have salt.
